Ti-Cats Swamp Bombers 32-7

IT'S HER BIG DAY

TORONTO WHOOPS IT UP

B.C. 'Plugs' Centennial In Mammoth Cup Parade

TORONTO (CP)—It took a while, but Grey Cup City erupted today into the sound and color traditionally associated with Canada's foremost sports spectacle.

The fuse was lit at all-night parties and by howling crowds in the downtown hotel lobbies.

Crowds that were subdued Thursday and relatively quiet early Friday began to whoop it up during the night and never stopped. Today, as the bands and majorettes arrived, the crowds met the special trains and Grey Cup fervor rolled to a peak.

GIANT PARADE

It exploded in the annual mammoth pre-game parade.

The colors of the competing teams—Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Hamilton Tiger-Cats—predominated, but also seen were the green and gold of Edmonton and the red and white toques of the hollering Habitués from Montreal.

The killed 48th Highlanders of Canada Band led off the parade as a pipe-walling escort to Carol Lucas, 18, of Burnaby, B.C., queen of this year's Grey Cup. She sat chilled on the back of a snappy convertible she won as Miss Grey Cup, 1957.

Of the 122 units in the parade, 17 were bands and 17 were marching units. The British Columbia entries, 22 units, alone cost more than $24,000. The parade took an hour to pass any given point.

One British Columbia float was a huge flying saucer with dog-masked driver and spacemen—from Comox. It was one of the hits of the parade.

Theme of the British Columbia entries was "Visit British Columbia in 1958 and take in the Grey Cup."

BANDSMEN HURT IN CUP PARADE

TORONTO (CP)—Five bandsmen of the Montreal Alouettes 45-piece band were reported injured during the Grey Cup parade today when a horse drawing a buggy in the Calgary Stampeder unit bolted.

The horse, dragging the buggy, ran into the Alouette band.

The accident happened on Yonge Street.

'T-BRICKS FOR KOREA'

$19, Year's Saving In Pennies Donated

Many of the donations pouring into The Times "T-Bricks for Korea" fund represent the personal sacrifice of Victorians to whom giving is far more important than keeping.

The anonymous "Mr. Pennies" is an example. Friday night the elderly gentleman was talking about our Korean fund with Harold Lees of Lees' Candy Store, 643 Yates.

"Mr. Pennies" isn't well-to-do,

"Who Needs Sputnik?" read a sign. "We have the Bombers."

Cages of papier mache Tigers rolled to parade assembly floats with "Tigers—Eat 'n Raw," the main sentiment.

Two Alouette fans carried a coffin—"Lest We Forget." Lettered on it was "92-75," indicating a pass from Sam Etcheverry to Hal Patterson, their numbers.

The 19 Alouette majorettes and a 45-piece band followed. Miss Edmonton Eskimo rode in a small car atop a green and gold float.

The parade, scheduled to pass city hall at 9:45 a.m., was half an hour late. The crowd had formed 45 minutes earlier. Police officials said it was the biggest crowd they had seen at a parade in two years, but it was quiet and controlled.

His "Pennies will buy 190 bricks—at 10 cents each—to help build an orphanage" in a pavilion for children of Seoul, Korea. Indirectly the bricks will build up the hunger-weakened, diseased bodies of tiny Korean children.

Overnight The Times received $343.60. We now have $1,711.88. We need $12,000 and we have only 25 days in which to receive donations.

Send yours today to The Victoria Daily Times, Douglas Street or take them to The Times downtown office, Broad Street.

Winnipeg Fumbles Grey Cup

(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

TORONTO—Hamilton's powerful and alert Tiger-Cats scored early and late to rout the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, 32-7, today and return the Grey Cup to the east for the first time in four years.

Fumbles proved the downfall of the Winnipeg club. Seven times they fumbled and six of them were recovered by the Tiger-Cats. Four of the fumbles were responsible for Hamilton touchdowns.

Hamilton, which beat Winnipeg, 12-6, four years ago, scored twice in the first three minutes and then added three more touchdowns in the first 10 minutes of the final quarter. Gerry McDougall, Hamilton's twisting, driving 221-pound fullback, paced Hamilton with a pair of touchdowns on runs of 27 and five yards.

afternoon, raced 50 yards with a fumble for the first major of the game. Quarterback Bernie Faloney ran six yards and Cookie Gilchrist, Hamilton's other 221-pound back got the Tiger-Cats final touchdown on a 16-yard end run.

Hamilton built up a 32-0 lead before substitute quarterback, Canadian Barry Roseborough, playing for the injured Kenny Floen, tossed 15 yards to Dennis Mendyk for the lone major by the western champions. It came with only four minutes to play and gave Winnipeg the consolation of averting a shut-out.

FAN TRIPS PLAYER

The game was marred by a fourth-quarter incident when a fan on the sidelines tripped Hamilton's touchdown-bound Bawel as he raced down the sidelines. Bawel had intercepted a pass at the Hamilton 40 and was sent sprawling by the fan, standing amidst Bomber players on the touchlines near the Winnipeg bench at the Bomber 42.

Officials, after a short conference, gave the Tiger-Cats possession on the Winnipeg 21. This was the first time in the 49-year history of the cup that a fan had interfered with play. As it turned out, Tiger-Cats didn't suffer by it. They went on to score in two plays, Gilchrist going around the end for his second touchdown of the afternoon from the 16-yard line. That, with the convert, made it 32-0.

The Bombers, who dressed only 11 Americans, were seeking the fourth straight title for the West. The last three years Edmonton Eskimos, winning the western title, have gone on to take the trophy.

The game was witnessed by a crowd of more than 27,000, including Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who performed the honorary kickoff.

Rocket Plunge 'Due in Hours'

CAMBRIDGE, MASS. (UP)—Astronomer Dr. Fred L. Whipple predicted today Sputnik I's rocket will plummet to earth between 5 p.m. and 9 p.m. (2 p.m. and 6 p.m. PST) today. He said he believed it would fall in the eastern hemisphere.

"It's not possible to predict exactly where it is going to land," said Whipple, director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory.

"But the probability is better that it will fall on the eastern hemisphere," he added. Whipple said "it could conceivably fall over Japan, Eastern Asia or any of the countries in that area."

SIGHTING REPORTED

Whipple said his prediction was based on an observation from Jodrell Bank Observatory in England which reported sighting the rocket at 10:15 EST (7:18 PST) today. "This leads us to believe that the current period of the rocket is about 88.2 minutes," he said. That figure represents the time it takes the rocket to circle the earth.

Whipple said that the rocket probably would orbit the earth four to eight more times before expiring.

Whipple said "it is not impossible for the rocket to fall over North America, but it looks more probable that it will land in the eastern hemisphere."

Dr. Whipple has predicted the final plunge of the rocket should be visible, whether it is day or night—as it starts to burn from friction with the atmosphere.

The scientist said he believed the object could survive the terrific friction of the atmosphere. If it lands where it could be recovered, Whipple said "The solidly constructed parts such as the rocket motor, should come through without being badly destroyed."

Antarctic Ship Hit by Iceberg Dumping Cargo

LONDON (AP)—With a damaged hull, a British scientific research ship limped into a frozen island in the South Atlantic today after striking an iceberg on her way to the Antarctic.

Last word from the 1,100-ton survey ship Shackleton said she had reached Uruguay Cove on Laurie Island and that she was dumping her cargo as water poured in between decks. Argentina maintains a base on the island.

The message said lifeboats were lowered in preparation to abandon ship. An attempt was being made to beach her.

Lakehead Airport Burned

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—A fire that caused close to $1,000,000 damage hit the Lakehead Airport on the outskirts of Fort William Friday night, destroying two hangars, the control tower and at least 11 planes.

A Trans-Canada Air Lines flight with eight passengers and a crew of three aboard landed without radio contact with the ground during the blaze.

Capt. Wallie Davies, pilot of the DC-3 from Toronto, said he had been informed of the fire and sighted it from about five miles out. He landed without difficulty but took his plane to Winnipeg without passengers because the fire knocked out storage facilities for the normal overnight stopover.

The plane had to refuel far from the terminal because of the flames.

Two shifts of firemen and all city equipment were called out after the blaze broke out and quickly roared through Second World War hangars occupied by the Thunder Bay Flying Club and Superior Airways Limited, only commercial service based at the airport.

F. J. Ginter, chief controller at the airport for the transport department, estimated the damage at close to $1,000,000. He said five single-engine planes, including three Aeronaas, one Chipmunk and one Piper Tri-Pacer, were destroyed in the flying club hangar.

Tottenham Beats Champs

LONDON (Reuters)—Tottenham Hotspurs registered its first away win of the English soccer season today, defeating league champion Manchester United 4-3 in a thrill-packed First Division game.

It was United's first home defeat by a London team since 1928. Much was against the Manchester club, which had to field four reserves, including Dave Gaskell, a 17-year-old replacement for goalkeeper Ray Wood, who collapsed in the street Friday night and is in hospital.

The Wolverhampton Wanderers consolidated their place at the top of the First Division, beating Burnley 2-1 to preserve an unbeaten home record. With 31 points, Wanderers lead by three points over West Bromwich Albion, which drew 3-3 against last-place Leicester City.

CELEBRATES 83RD BIRTHDAY

Sir Winston Churchill leaves his London house en route to his country residence at Chartwell, Kent, where today he celebrated his birthday at a family party. Only other guest was Field Marshal Montgomery. (AP wirephoto)

'Grand Old Man' Starts 84th Year

LONDON (UP)—Sir Winston Churchill celebrated his 83rd birthday today, his once-powerful body bowed under the weight of the years.

The statesman who guided Britain through its "finest hour," took time out from work on the last volume of his massive four-volume "History of the English-Speaking Peoples" to observe the anniversary.

It was a quiet celebration at the Churchill home at Chartwell, in the country, near London. Only members of the family and Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, the victor of El Alamein, shared in the celebration.

Churchill's son Randolph, and his daughters, Diana and Mary, were at Chartwell to help their father celebrate. The other daughter, Sarah, an actress, is in the United States.

Most of Churchill's nine grandchildren also were there to watch him cut the huge iced birthday cake, topped with a single but big candle.

Churchill no longer has the physical strength for prolonged festivities. The years have taken their toll of the sturdy figure which served him in his adventurous career from the Boer War through the Second World War.

Montgomery, almost as flamboyant a figure as his former chief, disclosed he was greeting the old warrior with the Churchillian phrase: "Sir, I salute you with 83 salutes from a hundred thousand guns."

Earlier this week, Montgomery filmed a special introduction to an American television program on Churchill's career which will be screened tonight by Britain's independent television network.

In it, Montgomery saluted Churchill "as the greatest Englishman of all time."

Four Bodies Discovered In Fire Ruins

HOPE, B.C. (CP)—A coroner's inquiry will be held next week into the deaths of four men whose bodies were found in the charred ruins of a shack east of here Friday.

The shack, located near the Canadian National Railways tracks on the north side of the Coquihalla River, burned to the ground last weekend.

RCMP speculated the four, all believed in their 60s, had a party, fell asleep and were burned when the shack caught fire.

One RCMP officer said the bodies were so badly burned that identification was impossible.

The bodies were discovered by Vancouver hunter Walter Payment.

No date for the inquiry has been set.

Labor Party To Take Over In N. Zealand

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (CP)—Labor unseated the National government in New Zealand's general elections and will return to power after an absence of eight years, final unofficial returns showed tonight.

The figures gave Labor 41 seats in the 80-seat Parliament to 38 for the National party of Prime Minister Keith Holyoake.

Another seat will be contested in January.

Voting in the one constituency was postponed because of the death of one of the candidates. Observers believe the National party should retain the seat—which would mean just a two-seat parliamentary margin for the new Labor government.

Walter Nash heads the Labor party, in power in New Zealand from 1935 to 1949.

Proxy votes remain to be counted, but most political quarters believe they will favor Labor.

The preliminary count showed that Labor polled 508,981 votes to the National party's 458,801. The Social Credit League got 75,135 votes.

Labor won most support in the cities and bigger provincial towns. National party candidates held the country areas.

Four Communist candidates polled only 526 votes among them.

In the outgoing Parliament, the National party had 45 seats and Labor 35.

A corner known as the McKee Block, built about 1912, was destroyed. Tenants of 10 apartments nearby were evacuated.

AILING PRESIDENT DOWN ON FARM

President Eisenhower and Mamie display broad smiles as they arrive at Gettysburg, Pa., farm home after drive from Washington. Ike plans indefinite vacation to recover from recent cerebral attack. (AP wirephoto)

WHAT'S YOUR OPINION?

By JOHN MIKA and IRVING STRICKLAND

Question: Do you think President Eisenhower of the U.S., who carried a great load during the Second World War, should attempt to carry on as leader of the most powerful nation in the free world when, at the age of 67, his health obviously is precarious?

Charles Dickinson, 1600 Hampshire: "If he and his advisers think he is in a position to carry on, I would say that certainly he should not retire. I consider him a very efficient and great man. He's honest and generous, which is very refreshing in a politician. It would be unfortunate if the free world was to lose his leadership, unless that was absolutely necessary for his health's sake."

Jack McLeod, 1174 Hadfield: "I feel he should step down and let some man take the job who's capable of handling it. Eisenhower definitely is not in good health and he should retire. If a man was as sick as he is, do you think any business would hire him? Three major illnesses are three too many for a man in so important a position. The economy of the U.S. and even of Canada, depends on a strong leader in Washington. Look how the stock markets, Canadian as well as U.S., react because of his illnesses."

Mrs. Mary Riedlmayer, 1007 Esquimalt Road: "If he's sick, and he certainly seems to be, then he shouldn't remain as president of the U.S. A sick man can't keep interested in what's going on around the world. He also is getting too old for the kind of responsibility that goes with his job."

Morris Phillips, 833 1/2 Fort: "I certainly don't think that Eisenhower should continue as president. A man has to be in terrific physical shape to withstand the strain of an office like that and it would only be murder to leave him in the White House when he's been sick so often. He's loved by his people but in today's world you need more than that kind of qualification for the U.S. presidency or else the whole free world will suffer."

Mrs. Judy Barclay, 1274 Topaz: "Of course Eisenhower should stay in office if his illness is mild. I think the doctors would say so if he was seriously sick. I don't think his age matters, look at Sir Winston Churchill and how long he remained in office."

CCF Charges Vets Denied Treatment

OTTAWA (CP)—H. W. Herdridge protested in the Commons Friday that male immigrants are receiving treatment at Shaughnessy Military Hospital in Vancouver but war veterans are being denied admission.

Veterans Minister A. J. Brooks said the complaint would be investigated provided Mr. Herdridge gave the department particulars.

The CCF member for Kootenay West said Shaughnessy Hospital was built to care for men who fought for this country. Yet needy veterans were being turned away while male immigrants were receiving hospital services, dentures and glasses.

Certain female immigrants and children were getting a type of out-patient service.

"Mr. Brooks said no eligible veteran is refused entry to the hospital. However, Mr. Herdridge said many needy veterans do not qualify under regulations and are prohibited from receiving treatment."

"I suggest that no needy or destitute veteran in Canada, regardless of the present regulations, should be denied admission when we can make provision for other persons," he said.

PARLIAMENT TO HOLD SESSIONS INTO 1958

OTTAWA (CP)—The government now figures that the current session of parliament will spill over into 1958, it was learned today.

But it likely will be over—by private arrangement between the Progressive Conservatives and the Liberals—in time for the Jan. 14 opening of the Liberal leadership convention here.

Earlier expectations had been that the session would wind up in December.

Communications Probe Suggested by Winch

A parliamentary investigation into all forms of communication in Canada was suggested Friday by Harold Winch, CCF member for Vancouver East.

"It is high time that a thorough examination was made of all the intricacies and manipulations of all the communications companies," he said.

"We want to see that the people of Canada are not being ripped, as I believe they are."

Mr. Winch was speaking on a bill to increase the capitalization of the British Columbia Telephone Company from $75,000,000 to $250,000,000. The bill eventually got Commons approval.

While he did not oppose the bill, Mr. Winch complained at the idea that B.C. Telephone shareholders might be able to get new stock at below the market price.

He also said about 35 per cent of B.C. Telephone is controlled in the United States through Anglo-Canadian Telephone Company.

"B.C. Telephone has a virtual monopoly in the province but is controlled in the U.S. and buys equipment from a company controlled in the U.S. and owned by the same octopus," he said.

Japanese Salmon Under Canadian Labels

A B.C. Social Credit member's complaint that Canadian canners market imported Japanese canned salmon under top Canadian brand labels was termed "substantially correct" by Fisheries Minister Angus MacLean Friday.

Mr. MacLean said the matter had already been brought to his attention and was receiving careful consideration. He promised a fuller statement to the House Monday.

The question was raised by A. B. Patterson (Fraser Valley), who said that "in the marketing of imported salmon from Japan, Canadian canners use the Cloverleaf, Gold Seal and Paramount labels, which are the top brand labels of three of the largest companies."

Later, outside the House, he said he based his statement on a communication from the United Fishermen's and Allied Workers' Union (Ind.), which had indicated the Canadian canners using the top brand labels for Canadian salmon were the ones using the same labels for the imported salmon.

In the House, Mr. Patterson said the words "product of Japan" were printed in such small letters on the canned Japanese salmon marketed under Canadian brand labels "that few individuals knew they were not purchasing Canadian products."

He asked the minister to insist that adequate indication of the country of origin be printed on the labels.

Veterans Minister A. J. Brooks says he has found no waste or extravagance in his department and doesn't expect to find any.

He made the statement a few minutes before the House approved his department's $259,690,000 spending program for the fiscal year ending next March 31.

The spending estimates were debated for one hour in the morning and 2½ hours in the afternoon. Mr. Brooks spoke for about five minutes replying to questions asked by members during the debate.

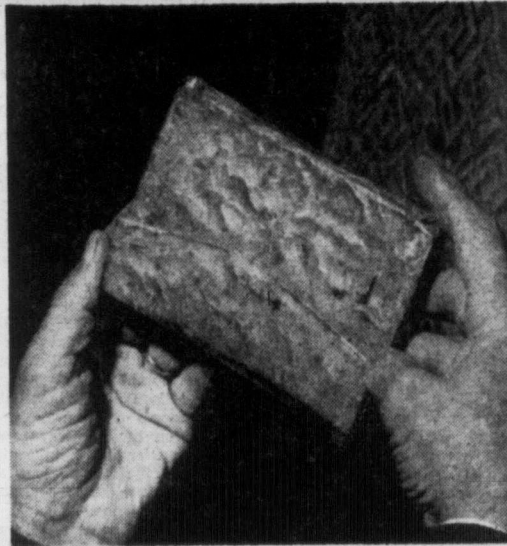

The House then approved the multi-million-dollar program in six minutes. The estimates of three other departments—post office, secretary of state and mines and technical survey—also have been approved. The postal estimates were approved at the pre-election session last spring.

TREASURE REVEALED

Unimpressive to the untrained eye, but a treasure to the art enthusiast, is the small sketch book containing 81 pages of Francisco Goya. J. P. E. Klaverwyden, top left, shows the book to Lloyd Edwards, assistant manager of the Royal Bank, and Albert Erien, vault custodian. The book has been stored in a safe deposit box since Mr. Klaverwyden brought it back from Germany, where it was certified as genuine Goya by art expert Dr. Herbert Paulus, but he has agreed to loan it to the Victoria Art Gallery for a two-day public showing, from 8.30 a.m. to 9 p.m., Tuesday and Wednesday. The book, at right, valued at $465,000 by Dr. Paulus, will be in a locked case with two armed guards on duty at all times. (Times photos by Halkett.)

Damage of $700,000 In Vancouver Blaze

VANCOUVER (CP)—A three-alarm fire destroyed a half-block-long tire manufacturing warehouse in Vancouver's False Creek industrial section Friday night.

Damage was estimated by the owner at $700,000.

Fire Chief Hugh Bird declared the blaze out shortly before 7 p.m., 90 minutes after the fire broke out at Borne and Weir Ltd. The flames also destroyed a portion of the C. H. Brawn Paint Co. warehouse.

Clouds of smoke billowed from the huge warehouse as flames ate through 5,000 tires.

Owner Fred Weir estimated the damage to tires, machinery and building at about $700,000. A spark from an electric motor apparently started the blaze.

An unidentified fireman was taken to Vancouver General Hospital after a falling timber struck him on the back. He was not severely injured.

Firemen continued to pour water on smoldering piles of tires long after the blaze was brought under control.

Most Wanted U.S. Thug Nabbed in Dawson Creek

(From CP Dispatches)
DAWSON CREEK, B.C.—Two RCMP officers at Dawson Creek Friday arrested a 37-year-old butcher listed as the most-wanted man in Arizona. He gave up without a struggle and admitted he was Billy Clyde Davenport, wanted for armed robbery by police in Phoenix, Ariz., Prescott and Las Vegas, Nev.

He is being held in prison for immigration authorities for alleged illegal entry to Canada. Police said he had been working in a Dawson Creek butcher shop for some months.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross opened the $129,000 headquarters of the Canadian Legion's B.C. and northwestern states command in the west end Friday. FOUND DEAD IN CAR

INVERMERE — RCMP said Friday Elizabeth Veronica Joseph, 21-year-old daughter of Camille Joseph of the Kootenay Indian reserve, was found dead in a car Thursday night.

Police said they believe death was from natural causes. The car was one which they had stopped earlier, arresting the driver. They said another woman, passenger in the car phoned police to tell Miss Joseph was dead.

PLANE DAMAGED

VANCOUVER — A Pacific Western Airlines C46 was slightly damaged Friday afternoon when the under-carriage collapsed after it had landed at Vancouver airport. No one was injured. A company spokesman said the aircraft had just returned from a test flight and was almost at a standstill when the carriage buckled. Only the pilot and co-pilot were aboard.

BUTTON CLUE

CHILLIWACK—A green button was the only clue to a series of three burglaries in Chilliwack this week. But it led to the arrest of a Vancouver man who pleaded guilty in police court Friday to two charges of breaking and entering and theft and one charge of breaking and entering with intent. The suspect, Mario Castel, was remanded to Dec. 6 for sentence.

The Search, Test and Great Discovery

Christians have long sought a greater understanding of Christ Jesus' healing method. Many have not been satisfied that Christian healing applied only in that day.

Just over ninety years ago, a devout New England woman, Mary Baker Eddy, discovered the scientific law of the Christ method of healing and named her discovery Christian Science. For some years she tested its healing efficacy for herself and others. Then in 1875 she gave to the world

New Attack on Combines

IN THESE COLUMNS RECENTLY we asked what would be the general attitude of the Diefenbaker Government toward the old, never-ending problem of combines in restraint of trade. An answer, or part of an answer, has now come from Mr. Davie Fulton, minister of justice. Mr. Fulton intends to prosecute the Canadian Breweries Limited under the Combines Act.

As in all cases sub judice of the courts, it is not permissible to comment on the possible guilt or innocence of the accused. But it is clear that in this prosecution the Government is breaking new ground, in attempting to enforce, for the first time, legislation introduced by its predecessor.

In 1955 the Restrictive Trade Practices Commission, policeman of the Combines Act, investigated the affairs of Canadian Breweries Ltd., headed by the distinguished Toronto financier, Mr. E. P. Taylor. It found that this giant organization already controlled a large part of the Canadian brewing industry and was planning to control more by the purchase of various breweries, notably Western Canada Breweries Ltd., whose head office is in Vancouver. While competition still existed in the brewing industry, the commission reported, it would be imperilled by this expansion.

The commission proposed that the Federal Government forbid Canadian Breweries Ltd. to buy more breweries, especially Western Canadian, or take any other steps to fix beer prices or reduce competition.

Such action would be a new approach to the combine problem. In the past the Government has prosecuted alleged combines after they have come into being. Under a section of the law not enforced before, the government is empowered.

A Very Creditable Job

THE OPENING OF THE NEW Point Ellice bridge today ends many years of controversy and confusion, and opens a new era of efficient service to the transportation needs of this community. While the old bridge remained, there could be no avoidance of concern for its safety, of restrictions on its use and worry for its future. Yet for years indecision and procrastination delayed what obviously was a needed improvement.

Credit for construction of the new bridge may be shared by many, but to Mayor Percy Scurrell must go the major portion. Elected on a promise to get the job done, he carried through on his undertaking with persistent vigor, found funds for it in the sale of tax-reverted property, sought and obtained provincial, federal and CNR assistance, and carried the whole project to successful completion.

After so many years of delay

Whose Neck?

MR. DONALD QUARLES, deputy minister of defence for the United States, has expressed the view that his country and Russia are running "neck-and-neck" in the development of intercontinental ballistic missiles.

But just what are the figures running "neck-and-neck"?

To the Alsop brothers and others who have criticized American blindness to Soviet advances, it will doubtless occur that an ostrich could run "neck-and-neck" with a bear and still be far behind.

I recall that at that time thought was being given to setting up in Ottawa some kind of continuing federal-provincial official committee to keep these problems under review, and to discuss solutions for them. Nothing came of this.

Perhaps it was thought that a committee of this kind would emphasize too much the separateness, the division, between the federal and provincial parts of our governmental structure.

The interdependence of the provinces and the federal government, however, has increased during the war that followed the depression because of the growing necessity for huge federal war revenues and, therefore, for the exploitation of every constitutional form of federal taxation.

War time federal-provincial arrangements were extended after 1945 and since that date the matter has been almost continuously under examination and discussion.

In a word, the problem is simply how to reconcile the growing requirements of both federal and provincial governments for revenue to meet increasing expenditures, which revenue must, after all,

Doctors? Phooey!

Mr. Tobin must be congratulated on a second coat of gloss to the great Kelowna Fluoridation Experiment. To this plebian, however, it is apparent that a principal basic factor (so axiomatic that any reasonable person, however prejudiced, must admit) has been blithely ignored by fluoridationists, viz: that sodium fluorides are a deadly poison and inorganic, i.e., lifeless, yet by some magic alchemy of Big Business are supposed to give life to children's teeth.

And I must also doff my hat to the mesmeric touch so deftly applied by fluoridation agents who can fool a lot of people: that is, until it is discovered that they have been beautifully hoaxed. But I can see no miraculous power in this apostate age that can put life into a dead thing, specifically children's teeth. Can you? This is a delusion that ranks with the best ever concocted by any fakir, and all through Mr. Tobin's sophistry runs a strong muddy current of delusion.

Let me repeat—that those doctors and dentists who echo the dictums of the American Medical Association, the Dental Association and the Public Health Service (which are born of corruption and bereft of any original research of their own) are just two-legged sheep bleating approval of their suborned masters.

LOOSE ENDS

A RECENT case in the Okanagan must set the philosophic mind pondering the nature and legal definition of crime. A motorist there, convicted of driving at a speed of 105 miles an hour, was sentenced to two years in jail and his driver's licence was canceled for five years after a fatal accident.

He was guilty, says the court of criminal negligence. The layman will think this a very proper sentence in a case involving the loss of a human life and a speed of 105 miles an hour. But even if no one had been killed, such a speed is, or should be, a criminal offence as a layman would define crime.

A man who travels the roads at 105 miles an hour may be, in sedentary life, an excellent citizen whom you would trust with your life. In a car he is certainly an amateur criminal, far more dangerous than most professionals, with whom no one would trust his life.

THE law, however as Mr. Bumble remarked long ago, is often an ass. A man who forges a small cheque and thus steals a few dollars will go to jail for a long spell. Some petty housebreaker who steals your candlesticks will end in the penitentiary. A man who drives 105 miles an hour will probably be fined or may lose his licence for a while unless he gets into an accident and someone is killed.

Concerning the Law and Mr. Bumble

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

THE law doesn't care, either how much we abuse the highways themselves. They belong to all of us and therefore anyone can treat them as he pleases.

If some stranger drove a truck into your garden one night and dumped a load of rubbish on your lawn, the law would take quite a serious view of that offence, because your lawn is private property. Yet every night, on every highway in the land, and especially on the pretty little side road, rubbish of all sorts is dumped to befoul the scenery and nobody does anything about it because the offence is directed against public property.

It is an offence to every citizen in the nation and therefore no serious offence at all. A crime sufficiently broadened is thereby diluted in the eyes of the law. Mr. Bumble was a wise man.

IT is in the realm of the intellect, however, that crime pays best, despite the popular legend to the contrary. A statesman who deludes enough people with a false account of their affairs and sufficient impossible promises, is customarily elected to high office, though he would be clapped immediately into jail if he deluded a single citizen and thus defrauded him of a day's pay, or less.

The democratic nations are full of eminent gentlemen, in high places, of the most immaculate personal honor, whom you could trust with your private purse, your honor or your wife but who are successfully practising intellectual fraud on a grand scale. It is legal because it is public, collective, and damages the whole community far more than all the crimes that reach our courts.

INDEED, this kind of fraud is practiced unconsciously by the practitioners because it is so general, widespread and accepted by the public with a genial shrug; because we all prefer to be fooled by pleasant legends than to face unpleasant facts; and because, of course it is almost impossible for the most intellectually honest statesman ever to find the true facts in this complex world even if he wants to.

But the law is strong and ruthless in protecting your private property, your little home. It locks the doors against all intruders. It deploys the whole apparatus of society around your candlesticks.

THE ordinary man, therefore, feels quite safe in his home—until he peers through the window and beholds the sky where rockets are circling this highly legal planet and may drop down on us at any moment if somebody gives the necessary orders and pulls the appropriate triggers.

And while it is illegal even in Russia to destroy a man's home, there is no law, no law whatever, that prevents the destruction of the planet. Concerning which the inquisitive reader is referred to the eminent Mr. Bumble.

WHEN WE WERE VERY YOUNG

Through Fog to the Fabulous West Coast

By GUS SIVERTZ

IN what I have always regarded as a spirit of facetiousness the weather bureau now and then indulges in a shocking understatement and solemnly informs us that we may expect "fog patches" on the west coast of Vancouver Island. Many years ago I was aboard old Ss. Maquinna, heading up-coast after coming out of the Alberni Canal, when she crept into the shelter of Ucluelet. The wharf was astir with activity as a few whites, a large number of Indians and a strong contingent of Japanese milled around the freight shed. Behind the little settlement a grey shroud of fog spread chill fingers that blotted out the great forested hills.

The ship backed away from the dock and was soon sailing through a clammy, grey silence; drops of water dripped to the decks from all her standing gear and boom blocks creaked and clanked as the vessel rolled slowly in the trough of the long Pacific swells.

Only the steady throb of the engines and the sharp whistle blasts broke the silence that upheaved around us in the fog. We could have been alone in the vast Pacific Ocean.

It seemed a pity to be blotted out from the wonderful shore along which we steamed. I knew that right inshore was Wreck Bay (now called Florencia Bay) and that we would soon be coasting not far off Long Beach which was a ten-mile reach of pure white silver sand almost as level as a race course.

In what seemed a short while we were heading in behind Flores Island and whistling for the dock at Ahousat. By this time the fog had really settled in and the cries of seagulls were like the call of disembodied spirits. We slipped through the quiet sea along Sidney Inlet to the outside again and rolled gently into Nootka Sound.

Nothing was visible. From the bridge where I stood alongside Capt. Gillam, we could not see the lookout in the bows but only hear him sing out as he peered into the grey murk.

The ship moved at dead slow and Capt. Gillam showed not the least sign of anxiety, calling now and then to the quartermaster at the wheel out of the side of his mouth.

Suddenly the old man whistled through his teeth—a shrill, sharp whistle that seemed to pierce the dense curtain of fog. In a moment he was answered by a whistle from our port quarter—not a ship's whistle just an ordinary human whistle through the mouth. Indeed the Maquinna's whistle was silent as she nosed through the green and oily sea.

This exchange of whistling went on for a few minutes and then, without any warning, I saw the planks of a dock which we touched so gently that the ship barely felt the impact. On the dock, standing on a bollard, was a young Indian, grinning almost from ear to ear as the lines were made fast and the spring line brought the vessel alongside.

It was, of course, this Indian lad who had been answering Capt. Gillam's whistle, and I learned that this was an arrangement between them; that in a blind fog the lad would stand on a certain bollard and whistle the ship into her berth.

After a short stop we were under way again, slipping through the narrow and beautiful Tahsis Canal—now hidden in its vestment of fog—with the Maquinna's great blast sounding every few seconds so that the bridge officer could count the seconds of the echo.

Soon we were outside again and the great silent swells of the Pacific sent us rolling "half-sea-over" as we steamed along looking for the opening into Kyquot Sound. The next stop signalled itself long before we slowly pulled into the wharf for it was Cachalot, the whaling station, and the huge bodies being carved up under the long flensing knives of workmen gave off an almost overpowering odor. It was not a good time to go down to the dining saloon.

Then came the long run outside again to round Cape Cook and Solander Island which made itself known by the barking of the hundreds of sea lions who swarmed over the bare rocks of Solander Island.

As we breasted the island the fog began to lift and melt under a late autumn sun and we could clearly see the huge beasts which took such a heavy toll of our salmon that a periodic hunt was staged by the federal fisheries department.

In a short time we had passed Brook Peninsula and begun to stand in for the quiet and welcoming waters of Quatsino Sound, clear of fog and sheltered from the wild sweep of the westerly gales that lashed into creamy foam on Bald Bluff.

'Repudiate Any View That Would Reduce Canada to the Level of Competing Groups'

By HON. LESTER B. PEARSON. (Copyright 1937. All Rights Reserved.)

THERE met this week in Ottawa a conference of federal and provincial heads of governments, their colleagues and advisors, to discuss the most persistent and difficult problem of Canadian federalism, the financial relationships between the central and the provincial governments.

During the early thirties problems of the depression, the central government, with the aid of the provinces, or at least most of them, to take on more responsibility than previously for relief, employment and social security problems.

Some of the provinces at that time were in dire financial straits and through no fault of their own were not able to meet from their own resources the demands of the depression.

I was a secretary at two of these conferences and it was my first practical exposure to the complicated and difficult financial and other problems that are bound to exist in every federal form of government.

Pearson

I recall that at that time thought was being given to setting up in Ottawa some kind of continuing federal-provincial official committee to keep these problems under review, and to discuss solutions for them. Nothing came of this.

Perhaps it was thought that a committee of this kind would emphasize too much the separateness, the division, between the federal and provincial parts of our governmental structure.

The interdependence of the provinces and the federal government, however, has increased during the war that followed the depression because of the growing necessity for huge federal war revenues and, therefore, for the exploitation of every constitutional form of federal taxation.

War time federal-provincial arrangements were extended after 1945 and since that date the matter has been almost continuously under examination and discussion.

In a word, the problem is simply how to reconcile the growing requirements of both federal and provincial governments for revenue to meet increasing expenditures, which revenue must, after all, come from the same Canadian taxpayer. There is only one pocket.

This problem—inescapable in a federal state—would be difficult enough in any case. However, the difficulties in Canada are the greater because of two things.

1. Our provinces vary greatly in wealth and taxable resources.

2. One province, Quebec, has a very special and understandable interest in ensuring that any growth or concentration of federal power, financial and otherwise, no matter what the reasons for it may be, should not become a threat to her distinctive and accepted position in regard to race, language and culture.

So far as this second factor is concerned, no true Canadian would wish any increase of federal power, even if brought about by the services which all the people of Canada demand and by the necessities of defence, to prejudice in any way this special position of Quebec; or to weaken in any way the unique contribution she has made and is making to Canadian national development by her own culture and traditions and language.

All Canadians should not only accept this situation but rejoice in it. The fabric of our nationhood is made the stronger—and its pattern the richer; our position on the North American continent is made more solidly Canadian by this diversity in unity.

The provincial-federal conferences are one—but only one—way by which this special aspect of federalism, derived from our history and development, and essential to our future, is emphasized and preserved.

So far as the other factor is concerned, it is clear that if our nation, as a federation, is to be strong, and united, there cannot be enormous differences of living standards and services between provinces and sections; there cannot be developed and underdeveloped areas. If one part of Canada draws most of the wealth into itself, at the expense of other parts, there will be strains and stresses to unity.

That imposes an obligation on the central government to assist the poorer provinces to "equalize" their material position vis-a-vis the richer.

Agreement on methods and amounts for that purpose is always one of the most difficult and most important problems of federal-provincial relationships.

It is a continuing process which has to be adjusted to changing conditions.

This federal assistance, however, both for "equalization" of standards and for assisting the provinces in meeting the costs of new services, is not given to enable provincial governments to escape their own obligation to use to the utmost their own taxing powers.

If a province—or indeed even a municipality—yielded to the temptation to seek from a higher level of government financial help before exhausting its own taxing resources, that would be as untrue to the spirit of federation as the refusal of the federal government to assist.

This temptation must, however, be a strong one; for any government is bound to be attracted by the possibility of receiving revenue without incurring the odium of imposing more taxation.

In some provinces there is a tendency to ask the federal government to take on more and more obligations, which should be, and often are under our constitution, the responsibility of other levels. The difficulty that faces the central government in this respect is the greater because of the new and far-reaching obligations, especially in the field of social security, it is itself being asked to undertake nationally.

When provincial governments emphasize, and correctly, the growing burden of provincial expenditures and the inadequacy of provincial tax sources of income to meet them, they may at times forget that the burden of federal expenditures, including vast amounts for defence, has grown to at least as great an extent.

And again I repeat, all the money has to come out of the Canadian pocket.

The "strict maintenance of fair and friendly arrangements between the provincial and central governments in fiscal and other matters" is essential if our federal structure and our national unity are both to be preserved. This has required in the past—and certainly will in the future—understanding and compromise and good will on both sides.

It will require also that we repudiate any view that would reduce Canada to the level of separate and competing groups; or races or sections; or create the impression that provincial and federal governments are not working to the same end, the building up of a strong, unified and forward-looking Canadian nation.

Where There's a Will

The subject of wills, upon which is entrusted a monumental amount of legal erudition, is one which most people approach with the greatest reluctance. Making a will is a solemn undertaking, and leaves the new testator with a strong feeling of mortality; a feeling which is, to most people, unpleasant.

SILENUS

Thus they put off the evil day, often until it is too late. Nevertheless, despite this curious but understandable reluctance of people to make disposition of their goods and possessions against the day when such things will be of no further use to them, the courts probably spend more time on matters testamentary than on almost any other. Not a day goes by but the judge's chambers do not see several applications for probate of wills, for that dispensation by which the law gives authority to executors and force to the directions of the departed.

So there must be a good deal of will-making by our strong-minded citizens. Some citizens, indeed, having tasted the joys of having the last word, are not content with just a will. Their testamentary wishes arrive in due season before the judge like a kite, trailing a string of chopping and changing codicils so that it is sometimes difficult for anyone to say just what it was they had in mind. From such wills as these arise cases in court, and bitter family wrangles. But the law gains a new precedent. The enormous number of precedents in this branch of the law is inclined to make one wonder if the fashionably romantic notions of family affection are all they're cracked up to be.

The modern will, as a result of past centuries of bitterly fought out precedents, has come to be a pretty cut and dried matter; and this column finds little to please it in such a state of affairs. After all, one's will is the last chance one has to make the unanswerable comment on this or that. It is one's last word, and it is immune to repartee. There is no reason in the world, except a slavish adherence to convention and a lack of imagination in one's lawyer, why one's will should not be instructive, rude or amusing. Such things will have no bearing on its validity. It could also be drawn in verse. Why not? 'Twould cheer the judge and leave a little pleasant remembrance behind.

From the earliest times until the disappearance of the individual as a person some years ago, there have been odd and interesting wills. The earliest of which this column is aware is that of King Richard I, who, according to a contemporary chronicler, gave his "pride to the Templars and Hospitallers, my covetise to white monks, and my lecherie to prelates of holy churches." In humbler circles we find a nice regard for the sorrowing friends and relations: "I would have Wine and Ale to all the People to drink, and they that are Bearers to the ground my Will is that they be Invited to Super" ordained a generous testator in 1748.

There are many cases of some long suppressed bitterness against an individual or the state coming out at last in a will, such as the splendid fulmination of a lawyer against a statute which bothered him: "Having been deprived by an Act of the Legislature, in conformity with a Misfounded National Prejudice, from . . . etc., etc." Splendid stuff.

To the frequent adjurations that one and all should make their wills, let me add one more: put a little of yourself into it; you may not have another chance.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

A Night at the Ballet

LONDON—Here's a treat for ballet fans—a British movie called "The Bolshoi Ballet." The title gives the key to the fact that it is not a movie in the full sense of the term. The people who made it didn't intend it to be. It is merely a film record of a performance by the famed Russian company, starring the great Ulanova.

It is like an evening at the ballet, except that you see it on film. The first half consists of selections from six ballets, including the Spanish Dance from Swan Lake and Ulanova doing the Dying Swan. There is an interval and then they do Giselle in its entirety.

Man behind this film is Paul Czinner, husband of Elizabeth Bergner, and he told me that the idea was to give people who would never have the chance of seeing the Bolshoi Ballet in the flesh an opportunity of getting the feeling of what it is like to attend a performance.

The film was made in a single night at Covent Garden theatre before an invited audience. Their applause is left on the sound track, giving it an added aspect of authenticity.

Eleven cameras (one a bit out of focus—the film's only flaw) were spotted around the auditorium to get every possible angle.

Dr. Czinner said that the Russian dancers were thrilled with this plan of putting them on film, because they too would experience something they had never experienced before—seeing themselves perform.

But the high standard they set themselves was reflected in one clause they insisted should be in the contract. If they didn't like Dr. Czinner's finished film it must be thrown in the ashcan. Quite a gamble for any movie-maker to take.

And how does this experiment of an evening at the ballet on film work out?

No ballet expert myself, I thought it was terrific. And the way the crowds have been mobbing it since it opened here indicates that it is a big hit with the public.

One thing particularly impressed me. On occasion a movie audience will applaud at the end of a good film. With "The Bolshoi Ballet" they get so caught up with the atmosphere of being at an actual performance that they applaud every highlight throughout the show—the first time I've ever heard such a thing in a cinema.

A queer sensation, to hear applause coming from the screen's unseen audience and the people in the cinema doing their best to out-applaud them.

No attempt has been made to "doctor" the performance, which adds to the feeling of its being genuine.

For example, Ulanova comes on ahead of her cue at one point and retreats hastily into the wings.

And what those who have seen it are especially enthusiastic about is that they get something the average ballet-goer never gets—close-ups, not only of the dancing but facial expressions.

Next on Dr. Czinner's list after this success—a performance of the Royal Ballet (formerly Sadlers Wells), with Margot Fonteyn starring.

Farm Aid Plan Benefits 1,000 B.C. Families

About 1,000 farm families in British Columbia's Peace River area stand to benefit from proposed federal financial assistance.

Federal Agriculture Minister Douglas Harkness said in the Commons Friday "very considerable amounts" of assistance were expected to be provided farmers unable to harvest their crops in the Peace River area of B.C. and Alberta this year because of unseasonable weather.

W. A. MacGillivray, deputy B.C. minister of agriculture, said he was glad to hear of the assistance because the "situation in that area is not very satisfactory."

"It's been a pretty miserable season so far as harvesting goes," he said.

He estimated that 50 per cent of the average 3,500,000 bushels of wheat still was not harvested in B.C.'s Peace River bloc.

Inspectors coming out of the area said that no alskie or red clover, usually harvested by this time for use as seed and feed, had yet been threshed.

"I think we can take it for granted that the economy of the area is less buoyant," he said.

The affected area extends both north and south of the Peace River.

Inco Research helps Canada grow

Last October, with spring coming on in Little America, thirty-eight massive sleds began snaking their way across shelf ice, carrying hundreds of tons of supplies on a rigorous 600-mile trek to a U.S. geophysical expedition at an outpost near the South Pole. The sleds were especially designed and built right here in Canada. Essential parts of the sleds are made of ductile iron, a relatively new alloy developed by Inco metallurgists after years of research. These ductile iron parts have withstood the severe Antarctic conditions in fine style.

Lifeline for Antarctic Expedition

Ductile iron, a research development of Inco, is used for parts on Canadian-made sleds carrying supplies to South Pole.

For generations, metallurgists and foundrymen had been trying to develop a metal as strong as steel and as easy to cast as ordinary grey iron.

After years of research, Inco metallurgists came up with the answer in the development of ductile iron.

Ductile iron is a type of cast iron that can be twisted and bent without breaking. It has many other remarkable characteristics. For example, in these heavy duty sleds, used by the South Pole expedition, the ductile iron parts withstand heavy stresses at temperatures as low as 70° below zero F.

Ductile iron is only one of many important products developed by Inco research. For research is as much a part of Inco's operations as the production of metals.

Through research, Inco helps stimulate the growth of Canadian industry and provides jobs in Canada.

Producer-director Dick Powell notes that his Four Star Productions will need 117 half-hour stories each year for its television film needs. These will come from about 1,100 scripts.

THE SOUNDING BOARD

How Is Your Opinion... Good, Bad or Infallible?

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

If for the phrase, "good music," you read Bach, Beethoven, Brahms and the rest, you are in danger. Going blindly down a mental one-way street can only lead to a state of atrophy. Pretty soon you will not only be in a rut musically—it will start showing in a lot of ways you wouldn't believe possible.

Your personality may undergo a change and become dry and didactic. Relatives will have to tolerate you but old friends will run for cover. New friendships will be blighted in the bud stage—in short, you will have become a bore!

How to avoid this fate worse than death—to your friends that is. Well, my best advice is to obey the old railway crossing alert: stop, look and most particularly, listen.

Because if "good music" means for you only the great and late masters, in what category are you going to place all the other music mankind is heir to?

Is contemporary, folk, popular and jazz music all to be lumped together as "bad"?

Sorry, but it just ain't so. There are worthwhile qualities of taste, originality, imagination and true musicianship to be found in music under all these heads. The best of any of them warrants attention and gets it from the discriminating musical mind.

All of which is just one reason—but the most important—for welcoming the rebirth of a Victoria Jazz Society in this city. Without such an organization the musical picture is incomplete or at least lacking the final dimension.

Thanks to a broad-minded director with a keen awareness of his responsibility, the Symphony Orchestra gives us a good balance in traditional and modern masterpieces.

This role is shared on a more intimate plane by the Musical Art groups, while organizations like the Melstersingers and Gilbert and Sullivan Society see to it that our diet is not lacking the sunshine vitamin D of folk, ballad and operetta.

But since the disappearance of the former jazz society and up to now, we in Victoria have Victoria's jazz musicians, to collaborate with the Victoria Symphony in the near future, said collaboration being greeted by Symphony director Hans Gruber as a healthy and welcome sign.

So if you claim to be an intelligent and serious disciple of music you should go and listen to the jazz concerts, at least occasionally, making sure that you do so with alert ears and an open mind.

You still may not LIKE jazz—whether good or bad—but don't make the mistake of a wholesale condemnation on that score.

There are plenty of good things—food, furniture, architecture, pictures, books, flowers and people—that we personally don't like.

The trouble is too many people over-rate their critical ability. What is frequently lack of discernment or a narrow matter of personal taste is accepted and promulgated as infallible judgment.

Opinion and sound judgment walk arm in arm all too seldom. When they do it is the only critical partnership worth heeding.

Audrey

There are worthwhile qualities missed the vigorous and sharp flavoring of modern music in the realm of jazz.

Among the musicians who are combining their talents in the initial "Jazzorama" to be presented next Tuesday, the musical horizon is a good deal broader than it is among those entrenched behind an imagined "good music" barricade.

It is the avowed intention of

FOR the rest of it, however, little can be said. Gina Lollobrigida roams about the Technicolor wide-screened film of Paris looking like Gina Lollobrigida which most male patrons, at least, will believe is quite enough. But the rabble, the plots and counterplots, no doubt because of the unreality imparted by the direction, lend "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" an overall air of play-acting, as though, at any moment, it might develop into a musical comedy.

A pity this, because the film has its moments, such as the sight of Quasimodo being lashed then being denied a drink of water until Gina takes pity upon him, of the hunchback swinging madly on the great bells of Notre Dame Cathedral, of his abject loneliness.

But when you stop to recapitulate most of the honors must be awarded to Anthony Quinn. One thing is certain, however, Anthony Quinn, as the ugly Quasimodo, is par excellence. In spite of not wanting to wake up having to look at him before breakfast each morning, there is a humanity, a pitiable quality about the character that once again proves—if proof were necessary—that Mr. Quinn

For Violin Devotees Two New Virtuosi

By HUMPHRY DAVY

For a young man Michael Rabin, well known to TV fans, has gone a long way in establishing himself as an international celebrity. Since the 21-year-old violinist made his concert debut at Carnegie Hall in 1950, he has toured England, Europe, Australia and New Zealand.

All his tours have been successes and have firmly established Rabin as an outstanding virtuoso of the violin.

Davy

The artist is now heard in a superbly recorded superbly recorded recording of Wieniawski's Concerto No. 1, and Bruch's Scottish Fantasy (Angel 35484). This music belongs to the romantic school and was especially written for the violin.

The disc is wonderful value, not only for the quality of the playing to be heard, but also for the enjoyable music. And it's a good Christmas choice for anyone especially partial to the violin.

Gioconda de Vito, Italian violinist, may not be too well known in this continent, but is a great favorite in England and in her own native country. She has toured Europe several times and has appeared on four occasions at the Edinburgh Festival.

She has also played several times privately for Pope Pius XII, who, incidentally, is fond of the violin.

Born at Matrigna Franca, Gioconda first learned to play the mandolin at four, and four years later took up the violin. Her tutor was the local bandmaster.

Whether through shyness or lack of confidence, Gioconda had to be persuaded to enter the Vienna International violin competition in 1932. At the last moment, she borrowed a violin from a composer, entered the contest, and won first prize.

She is now heard on a new Angel record (35523) playing Brahms sonatas Nos. 1 and 3. Edwin Fischer, one of Europe's leading pianists, is at the piano.

Personally I preferred Oistrakh and Yampolsky interpretation of sonata No. 3, on an earlier Angel, but this may be purely a matter of individual taste.

Turntable Tips—There definitely is a religious renaissance in the United States, and albums such as Tennessee Ernie's "Hymns" are as popular as many of the rock 'n' roll records. Some recent albums of religious music worth hearing are "The Magic of Believing," which features Jane Russell, Connie Haines and Beryl Davis (Capitol); "The Grand Old Hymns" by Stuart Hamblen (RCA-Victor); and "Sweet Hour of Prayer" with Roy Rogers and Dale Evans (RCA-Victor).

THE STAMP CORNER

By REG NAIRNE

In contrast to the usual stories of philatelic finds, here is a sad but true tale of the "big one that got away."

It was not long after the 10c fur stamps were over-printed "G" for government use in 1950 that collectors spotted an error in the overprinting. They noted that the first stamp in the fifth row on the upper left pane each lacked the "G".

The government quickly rectified the error and wherever possible, stocks of the defective sheets were sent back to Ottawa to be destroyed, which of course created great excitement among philatelists.

Some months later the writer learned through the philatelic grapevine that a certain government official in one of the smaller B.C. towns had a supply in stock. A hurried trip was made to the scene, and an interview was arranged with the official in charge, who proved to be both courteous and friendly.

The object of the visit was, of course, to arrange for an exchange of perfect sheets (which the writer could have obtained from Ottawa for the purpose) for the defective ones which were in a small safe kept in the office where the interview was held.

But though sympathetic to a point, the official had quite decided views on the matter, and refused to allow the transfer of even one block from his stock of rarities—a painful experience for the writer, for there were no less than 30 sheets stowed away in the safe, all showing the error!

As a last hope a letter was written to Ottawa to try to obtain a dispensation, but the answer, boiled down, was "Nyet!"

At that time the price for these oddities had not been standardized. A dealer would have probably sold them for $15 or $20 each.

Missing out on the deal was a disappointment, but how much keener it would have been had the writer known that by 1957 the same 30 blocks would have a total value of no less than $12,000!

A PROGRAM OF WINNERS

"Contentment, Stable Interior," by George Morland (1763-1804).

Presented to Victoria Art Gallery Permanent Collection.

ART IN REVIEW

By MONCRIEFF WILLIAMSON

Valuable Morland Painting Generous Gift to Gallery

Jose de Goya y Lucientes! This week I had my first look at the photostat prints of the Goya sketches owned by Mr. J. P. E. Klaverwyden. From now on art experts throughout the world will be talking about this exciting discovery, as they will be talking about another discovery made this summer in England.

I refer to the 41 sheets of drawings by Fra Bartolommeo which were put up for sale at Sotheby's on Nov. 20. These drawings were purchased 32 years ago in Eire, but it was not until this summer that their owner brought them to the British Museum for identification!

Thus the fall of 1957 sees the art world enriched by hitherto unknown drawings by Goya (1746-1828) and Fra Bartolommeo (1475-1517) and Victorians can at least feel that they have had a share in the general excitement.

Meanwhile we can turn our attention to the British painter George Morland (1763-1804) not because he was a contemporary of Goya but because the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria has just been presented with one of his pictures: "Contentment, Stable Interior."

Set Example

The painting was presented by J. A. Young of Victoria and J. E. Rose of Vancouver, and the donors have expressed the hope that this presentation will stimulate further gifts to the Gallery's permanent collection. Because of its value the picture is being kept in storage until the new wing is ready but Mr. Colin Graham kindly allowed me to make a private and detailed examination so that I could pass on the good news of this generous gift.

The recent George Morland exhibition in London's Tate Gallery left critics divided as to its importance. For my part I think there is no doubt that Morland was a fine painter, though too prolific.

The world might have been better served, perhaps, had he painted fewer than the four thousand pictures attributed to him. Goya dissipated his youth in political quarrels and amorous activities. The value of Mr. Klaverwyden's sketchbook rests upon the rarity of Goya's early work.

On the other hand, Morland, despite long periods of drunkenness, and youthful dissipation as notorious as Goya's, was a hard worker throughout his life. He was drawing busily before he was three and while it has been said that he first exhibited at the RA when he was 10 he did not in fact exhibit there until he was 15.

Tyranny

His father, a pastelist and picture restorer, forced young George to support the family and it was not until he was 21 that he was able to escape the parental tyranny.

His first success was his painting "The Angler's Repast," which was engraved by William Ward.

This began a series of engravings which brought Morland's works into nearly every home in England and in 1786 when Morland married Ward's sister and a year later Ward married Morland's sister, the family business-partnership was consolidated. During the years 1788-89 Ward published 59 engravings of Morland paintings.

Personally I am inclined to discredit the numerous tales of Morland's drunkenness which have been handed down to us for at all times his output was sustained, there was no "falling off" in style or content and during the last eight years of his life, two of which were spent in prison for debt and two when he was incapacitated following a stroke, Morland produced 800 paintings and over a thousand drawings. For a man who was reputedly never sober, this is a pretty fine achievement.

His debts were another matter. Fortunately for art, Morland was forced to live in the country in order to avoid his creditors. In Leicestershire he painted the majority of his most famous rustic scenes.

The stable scene presented by Mr. Rose and Mr. Young is a very pleasing picture. It shows a horse, still saddled, feeding after a day's work while two boys lie contentedly on the straw beside his stall. The painting is filled with suggestion and compositional subtlety, such as offsetting the angle of the hay rack to counterbalance the great beam supporting the roof.

Luminous

The fading sunshine enters the stable through a gap above the hay, bathing the far wall in soft light. There is a luminous quality warming the whole scene; a fleck of light on the horse's fetlocks, a patch of green light on top of the post supporting the trough. An abundance of hay is depicted by a minimum of brushstrokes.

Although there is a strictly linear quality in the drawing the total composition has a painterly softness and diffusion which makes each object grow from the shadows. The picture is signed in the lower right hand corner.

At some time in its history the painting has been subjected to over-zealous restoration and cleaning, which is particularly noticeable in the thin quality of paint of the horse's neck and forequarters. On the other hand the lower left corner of the canvas remains an area of uncertainty and might have been cleaned to further advantage.

But these are technical details of little importance to the art lover who will welcome this fine gift to the Gallery, for the picture is certain to be a favorite.

Let us hope that there will be forthcoming other important gifts which Mr. Graham can put into storage until the new wing opens its doors.

Is Subtle War Being Waged On Tibet's Monastic System?

YOUNG DAYS IN TIBET, by Tsewang Pemba, Clark, Irwin & Co., Toronto, 184 pp., $3.25.

(Reviewed by Tony Dickason)

The Serenity and Peace which comes from deep conviction in all that is held sacred is gradually being replaced in Tibet by the lure of modernism, under the current Communist regime.

The author, first Tibetan to graduate from a western university in medicine (London, 1955), admits that communism is indeed improving his country in the physical sense, but this modernization is inseparable from the political and philosophical dogma.

The communists, he says, have so far made no direct attacks on the innumerable monasteries as religion is still a most important factor in Tibet, and a vigorous policy against the monks would likely encounter the resistance and hatred of Tibetans.

It seems probable, says the author, that the power of the monks will be diminished in more subtle ways.

DRAINS LIFE BLOOD
For example, the monasteries were not long ago the only place a poor boy could be educated; the situation is different now, with schools for both poor and rich.

As a result, the raw material for the monasteries can be diverted to secular channels, and the life blood of the monasteries could thus readily become the plasma from which skeptical scientists are made.

Question as to whether this transition is right or wrong cannot be answered yet, but there is not the slightest doubt that the formerly "mysterious" the volume for either amusement or information and there will be no disappointment.

But don't, repeat don't, expect an expose of mystics sitting in holes in the hills, melting snow by their profound thoughts.

"Look homeward, Angel," was not coined by Thomas Wolfe, author of a novel by that name. John Milton who first wrote the phrase in "Lycidas," a pastoral elegy.

U.P. was the first to send news to liberated newspapers in France, Italy and the Philippines after Second World War.

"HE ATE HIS PORRIDGE"

By Maurice Humber

Down from the storm, this pigeon came. He wobbled unsteady but wasn't lame. On top of our garage he did a light. And his wings, too, seemed alight. A beautiful bird of bluish-grey, I "shooed" . . . but he wouldn't . . . go away.

"Whatcha doin'?" fed our daughter, climbing the ladder. My grounded flyer looked . . . sadder 'n' sadder. He just squatted there, ignoring my passes. Blinking thru white, horned-rimmed glasses. "I think he's beat . . . the wind too strong. Let's leave him alone . . . he'll get along."

"Ah . . . Daddy," she pleaded, "he's in pain. He can't stay all night, out here in the rain."

"Well, go get a carton some rolled-oats too. And then I'll see . . . what we can do."

Down in the basement we fixed him a bed. He went right to sleep, we thought him dead. The following morning, she took him outside. He strutted about . . . again in his stride. He didn't take-off . . . as I had planned. He just hopped up . . . on Trudie's hand. She stroked his head, & talked more "doo."

"Fergoshakes Dad . . . what'll we do?" We took him back, up on the roof. "Gwan . . . fly away . . . you silly goof." He pouted about, strutting around. Getting his bearings . . . making sure they were sound. Then he took off . . . & flew south-west. All stuffed with porridge was our OVER-NITE GUEST.

BEASTALL ADVISES

Short Cuts Lead to Failure When Forcing Indoor Blooms

By JACK BEASTALL

Daffodil and hyacinth bulbs for indoor decoration, which were potted six to eight weeks ago and buried or placed in cool, dark quarters, are now showing their white roots through the drainage holes in the bottom of the pots.

The next step is to get them accustomed to indoor conditions and daylight. As with all steps in the forcing of bulbs into flower, this cannot be hurried. Rushing things at any stage, or trying to "ake short cuts, only leads to poor results.

For the first week indoors a temperature of 45 to 50 degrees will be sufficient, with weak daylight until the yellow growing tips become green.

If the pots were buried outdoors it is unlikely that any water will be required during this first week. Otherwise, water must be given according to needs.

Once the growth has greened, the next move is to sunlight. A table of sufficient size to accommodate the number of pots, placed at a large window or in a sunroom, provides the best conditions in a home. The foliage should not come in contact with the glass at any time.

BUD FAILURE

The day temperature in the sunshine may reach 75 to 85 degrees without harm, but the night temperature should never be more than 60 degrees. Buds which "blast" (fail to open) are the result of too high a temperature at night.

The pots will require a one-quarter turn each day to keep the growth upright, and watering has to be suited to the individual pots. They must never dry out, nor will the forcing be successful if overwatering takes place.

Some amateurs are able to make a very accurate estimate of the amount of moisture in a pot by lifting to test its weight, but the majority have to depend on the old method of tapping each pot with a small mallet or heavy piece of wood and judging the moisture content by the sound.

It is a good idea to fill two pots with tightly-packed soil, thoroughly soak one with water, and use these to get accustomed to difference in sound when tapped.

LENGTHEN STEMS

The flowering stems of hyacinths will become apparent very soon, and at that time a teaspoonful of a complete balanced fertilizer (6-8-6, 5-10-5, 4-12-4) dissolved in one-half gallon of water and substituted for a regular watering once every ten days, will be needed to help the plants along.

Should a hyacinth stem seem to remain among the leaves, an empty flower pot, of the same size as the bulb is in, should be inverted over the plant. This causes the flower stems to elongate as it reaches for the small amount of light admitted through the drainage hole.

Daffodils will require the same feeding at 10-day intervals once their flower stems are visible.

When the plants come into flower they will last considerably longer as an indoor decoration if removed from direct sunlight to a position with good light and a day temperature of 60 degrees, and taking them to a cool spot at 45 degrees over night.

WEEK'S WORK
By JACK BEASTALL
Cold frames must be freely ventilated whenever the weather is mild or not blustery, especially during mild rains.

Freelias in pots need little water until flower buds appear. A temperature of 45 to 50 degrees F. suits them, but they require full sun.

Bulbs in pots showing roots at the drainage holes may now be moved to warmer quarters. Below 60 degrees F. is best until the flower buds are well up.

Removal of perennial weeds among shrubs and in borders will lessen the work to be done in spring.

Use wide planks to work from where possible to avoid compacting the heavier soils.

Dig and use leeks and parsnips as needed. Flavor is excellent now.

Give the garden a final cleaning up, removing all debris and rubbish which can shelter pests over winter.

Ash from bonfire should be stored in the dry over winter. The useful elements are washed out by winter rain.

Canuck Kids Light Fuse In Time to Sink Cougars

Cats Get Another Shot At Rivals Here Tonight

Cougars 2, Canucks 4

Vancouver Canucks got away to a flying start in the coast division of the Western Hockey League mainly because of their rookie line of Orland Kurtenbach, Jim Powers and Ron Hutchinson sizzled in early-season games.

But when the youngsters faltered as the veteran pros rounded into better condition, the Canucks, touted as the team that was going to spread the field, skidded out of first place.

Skating out against Victoria Cougars at Vancouver Forum Friday night, they were three points behind the pace-setting New Westminster Royals and struggling to end a four-game losing streak.

The Cougars were threatening to make it five straight defeats as they ended the second period on the long end of a 2-1 count and continued to press in the opening stages of the third session.

Then the fleet rookie line caught fire again. Kurtenbach broke through make it 2-2 at 5:50 and nine minutes later was back with Powers to make the play that put Hutchinson through for the winning goal.

Smooth Bill Johnson all but ended the Cougars' hopes of collecting their fourth win of the season with a dash from his own blue line to make it 4-2 with less than three minutes remaining and the Canucks held off the Cougars rest of the way.

PROMISING DEBUT
Vancouver's victory spoiled what was promising to be a spectacular debut with the Cougars for forward Stan Baluk. The former Springfield Indian started the play which enabled centre Gordie Wilson to even the score at 1-1 midway through the second period, and then converted a pass from Colin Kilburn to send Victoria into a 2-1 lead as the Cats dominated play in the second session.

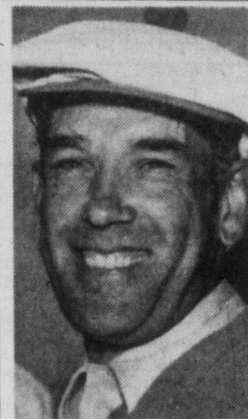

Baluk came close to pulling the Cougars into a 3-3 deadlock in the final period when he was put in the clear by Eddie Dorohoy, but the puck rolled off his stick and he couldn't get his shot away.

Cougars get another shot at their bitter rivals when they host the Canucks at Memorial Arena tonight.

Coach Pat Egan said this morning that he will probably go with the same lines that had the Canucks on the run for most of Friday's game.

Egan expects Cougar forechecking to keep the Vancouver rookies under control as the club makes another bid to start the winning streak that could lead to a playoff berth.

Game time tonight is 8 o'clock.

CHALLENGER for city open golf buttons, Al Reside (above) will team with Gord Pellow against holders Fred Painter and John Carlow, Sunday. The match, to start at 12:30, will be played at the Gorge Vale Club.

WHL RACE TIGHTENS

Amerks, Flyers Jam Upper Decks

By The Canadian Press

The upper decks of the Western Hockey League's coast division standings are beginning to take on the aspect of a crowded bus.

The Vancouver Canucks and Seattle Americans made things more than somewhat congested Friday night when they knocked off Victoria Cougars and New Westminster Royals, cellar dwellers and league leaders, respectively.

Canucks' 4-2 victory over Victoria moved them within a single point of Royals, whose 5-4 overtime loss to Seattle enabled the Americans to remain one point behind Vancouver in third place.

The top team in the Prairie Division also suffered a setback, Edmonton Flyers trouncing the Winnipeg Warriors 5-1 at Edmonton. The victory moved the second-place Flyers to within five points of the Warriors.

At Seattle, Val Fonteyne decided a close, bruising contest at 1:53 of the overtime when he took a backhanded pass from Guyle Fielder and beat New Westminster goalie Ben Bentley to break a 4-4 tie.

Pat Hannigan had tied the score for New Westminster late in the third period. The score was also knotted after the second.

Seattle scorers in addition to Fonteyne were Ray Kinasevich with two, Art Hart and Bill McFarland. Arnie Schmutz, Art Jones and Ron Matthews counted for the Royals besides Hannigan.

New Westminster's Hugh Barlow and Seattle's Les Hunt treated the fans to a lively bout of fistfights, which resulted in little damage to either pugilist.

Veteran Bill Mosienko scored for Winnipeg late in the third period to spoil what would have been Edmonton goalie Dennis Riggan's second successive shut-out.

Edmonton scorers were Jerry Melnyk, Len Lunde, Billy McNeill, Dennis Olson and Tom McCarty.

Tonight Vancouver is at Victoria, Seattle at New Westminster, Winnipeg at Calgary and Edmonton at Saskatoon-St. Paul.

Defending Kings Hang on Ropes

Rivalry as fierce as any seen on any English rugby pitch was evidenced Friday afternoon at Carnarvon Park when Oak Bay and Victoria High staged the first in a best-of-three series for the Howard Russell Cup, emblematic of senior high school supremacy.

Oak Bay won the game 6-0 on a fine, second-half rally that paid off at the 10-minute mark when Dick Sparks kicked a 35-yard penalty goal to give the green-and-white jerseyed crew the edge.

NEW YORK (AP)—Yolande Pompey, light-heavyweight contender from Trinidad, has arrived from London to campaign in American rings. He is scheduled to meet Clarence Hinant of Washington, D.C., at Chicago, Dec. 18.

AIMING AT TURKEYS Sunday will be Jack Roach, who will be firing in "A" class during annual Victoria Fish and Game Club turkey shoot at Goldstream. Willie Due For Shot At Humez?

NEW YORK (UP)—Lanky Willie Vaughn may get a January fight with Frenchman Charles Humez, middleweight champion of Europe, because of his unanimous decision over Ralph (Tiger) Jones at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Harry Markson, managing director of the International Boxing Club, said today, "we are considering a Vaughn match with Humez, whom we hope will come to New York after the first of the year."

Vaughn of Los Angeles outsmarted and outlasted Jones of St. Albans, N.Y., in their substitute 10-round before an estimated 2,500. Taking advantage of his long reach, Willie circled his bobbing-weaving opponent and beat him with left jabs, left hooks and straight rights.

JONES TIRES
Unexpectedly, Vaughn was superior even at close quarters in the late going against his tiring opponent, who hadn't fought since August.

Willie, 24, weighed 161 pounds to 29-year-old Jones' 160, and he was favored at 8.5. On a pounds basis Vaughn won as follows: 7-3, 6-4, 5-3, 2.

The United Press agreed, 7-3. There were no knockdowns although Jones was well shaken in the third, fifth, sixth, eighth and ninth. Both fell to the canvas in the sixth, and Willie wrestled the "Tiger" to the floor in the ninth. Jones' nose bled slightly in the sixth.

The number of good players operating in the WHL this season is expected to make voters do some heavy thinking about all positions when they fill in their ballots, one of which may be found alongside.

Deadline for submitting ballots is Dec. 14.

All proceeds from the league's first annual all-star tussle, which will be held at Calgary Jan. 8, will be added to the WHL Players' Benefit Fund.

When filled in, ballots may be deposited in boxes set up in the Memorial Arena lobby during Cougar hockey nights. Fans unable to attend games before Dec. 14 may mail ballots to Victoria Hockey Club, Box 26, Victoria.

Recognition will be given fans in each division whose choices match the team selected.

RECORD-BREAKER BOB WHEATON

... AIMS AT EMPIRE GAMES BERTH

Swimming Is Hard Work, But Worth It

By GRAHAM COX

"Competitive swimming is a lot of hard work, but worth every minute of it," says two-time Canadian junior backstroke record breaker Bob Wheaton of Victoria YMCA.

Finally hitting his stride on the water lanes, Bob, who has been working under coach Archie McKinnon for the past four years, has had a busy month picking up his first two Dominion marks.

His first record came in the Inter-high gala here three weeks ago when he travelled the 50-yard length of Crystal Garden pool in the fastest time recorded by a junior Canadian swimmer—27.2 seconds.

The second came last Saturday in Vancouver when the 16-year-old Oak Bay High School student backstroked his way over a 100-yard distance in 1:22 minutes during the Dolphin Club's invitational meet at the Crystal pool.

The amount of preparation needed for these few brief seconds of competition amounts to near-devotion. Wheaton spends upwards of six hours a week in either the Crystal Garden or the YMCA, swimming from a mile to a mile and a half each day.

Considered by McKinnon as one of the best natural stylists he has handled in his long coaching career, Wheaton has high hopes of travelling to eastern Canada this summer for British Empire Games trials in the hope of being chosen to make the trip to Cardiff, Wales, with the Canadian team.

"Competitive swimming is something you have to want to do," says McKinnon. "No body can make you want to win."

Victorians will get their chance to watch their most recent Canadian champion in action tonight when the local "Y" will be hosting coach Dan Garber's Bremerton, Wash., YMCA team at the Crystal Garden.

Divided into three age divisions, the gala will start at

Taylor Quartet Beaten In Totem 'Sp'iel Final

Pressing right down to the wire, Victoria entrants in the annual Totem 'Sp'iel in Vancouver fell just short of bringing home the major hardware Friday.

Gary Taylor lost out in his bid for the honors in the final draw as he dropped an 11-7 decision to Ken Anderson of Calgary in the final of the No. 1 primary event.

Anderson had a 9-1 record going into the final while Taylor was 8-1 in play in the two primaries, so that the Grand Aggregate championship was certain to go to the winner of the Grand Challenge event.

Earle England, R. Demers and K. Brown curled for Anderson, while Laurie Perlette, Ralph Schmidt and Bill Purdy were the other members of Taylor's rink.

Charlie Cook won the Evergreen event, No. 2 primary, by defeating B. Bennett, 8-6, in an all-Vancouver final. Bennett defeated Tony Gutoski of Victoria, 11-10, in the semi-finals.

Two other Vancouver Islanders carried home prizes. Bill Osborne of Port Alberni won the Vancouver event with a 13-10, 10-8 victory over Buck Glover of Vancouver. Glover beat Jack Moir of Victoria, 12-11, in the semi-finals.

Osborne and Anderson were the only visiting rinks to win any of the seven events decided up to midnight. Scores of finals:

Totem event (final): Anderson, Calgary, 11; Taylor, Victoria, 7.
Evergreen event (final): Cook, Vancouver, 8; Bennett, R. Demers, 6.
East-West event (final): French, Vancouver, 11; Diamond, Vancouver, 10.
Capitano event (final): Wright, Vancouver, 14; Shultz, Vancouver, 9.
Vancouver event (final): Osborne, 10; Glover, Vancouver, 8 (13 and 10).
Stanley Park event (final): Law, 8; Deibel, 10.
Dugwood event (final) winner: Berner, 3; Tinning, 8.

Shortly after Jackson was knocked out by Eddie Machen in San Francisco recently, the state of California suspended Jackson permanently.

Jackson said the NBA "would prefer that the boxer retire of his own accord" rather than face the stigma of enforced retirement.

OUTDOOR REPORT BY Doug Peden

Our traditional steelhead weather hasn't yet arrived, but the big, sea-going rainbows are back in Vancouver Island rivers.

Although only a few anglers are plunking lures into the river, the Cowichan is holding an excellent run of steelies. Other streams are also worth a try, but the Cowichan appears about the best bet, with fish in most pools between the mouth and headwaters.

Lower reaches of the Cowichan have produced some fast action and Art Hancock reports that there are also a good number of steelhead in the headwaters. Recent rains should help, but low water has made drift fishing at the top end difficult for all except expert boatmen. However, the fish can also be taken from the shore.

The Gordon River was a hot spot for a while but has dropped off during the past week. Len Duncan caught the tail-end of the first run last weekend and tangled with six steelies, beaching one. A new run can be expected in the Gordon within the next couple of weeks.

Continued mild weather has apparently helped keep trout active in Lower Island lakes, and Elk, Shawngin, Rogers (Dougans), Somenos and Cowichan Lakes are all providing interesting fishing. Best bets appear to be Cowichan Lake, where several limit catches, including some fish around five pounds, are being taken by trollers, and Shawngin Lake's West Arm, where trout are grabbing red-bodied flies.

Fast trolling with blue and white bucktail flies has produced some good catches of bluebacks at Saanich Inlet during the past two weeks.

Although they do not officially rate the title of bluebacks until they reach a weight of three pounds, the young coho salmon are bluebacks as far as most sports fishermen are concerned. Right now, some are getting up around the two-pound mark and providing good sport on light tackle in all parts of the inlet.

Bluebacks are also hitting at a fair pace off Crofton and Maple Bay and around Northwest Bay.

For those who want something bigger than one and two-pounders, winter springs are worth chasing in Saanich Inlet. It's mostly deep fishing for the springs, which are running between five and 10 pounds, with an occasional one tipping the scales around 15 pounds.

Best results at the Goldstream end have been in the vicinity of Chesterfield Rock and the Narrows. Down Brentwood way, the Willis Point-Senanus Island-Bamberton triangle is as good a bet as any.

Spoons and plugs are taking their share of the springs, but the most consistent anglers are using minnows or Strip Teaser lures.

Victor Humphries has been among the most consistent anglers operating out of Brentwood. Vic, who cuts his own herring strip and goes after springs with deep tackle, has been coming in regularly with limits.

Like several other members of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association, Vic has a good number of his fish frozen for later distribution at the surplus food stall.

But he believes there are several families who would welcome fresh salmon and, on the days he makes good catches, Vic is willing to deliver some fish.

He is thinking especially of large families where the wage-earner is currently unemployed. Fishing being the unpredictable pastime it is, Vic won't promise anything, but he's ready to try and provide a few salmon dinners.

Right now, he'd like to hear of some large families presently without a regular income which would welcome an occasional salmon. He can be reached by phoning 4-0406.

Dockers Back on Top; Totems Extend Streak

Victoria High School Totems tussled, dropping 19 points racked up their fourth straight through the hoop.

At Esquimalt High, the host squad thumped University School 67-16, and Mount Douglas squeezed out a 32-28 win over Belmont High.

The Totems coasted to a 50-17 triumph over winless North Saanich after Mount View had subdued St. Louis College, 34-22, in the opening game at Vic High.

Big Mike Solstice dropped in nine points for the winners and Dave Skilling added eight. Leading North Saanich were Grey Eaton and Mike Ross, each with five points.

Dave Black paced Mount View to its first victory of the season in the preliminary Gals Came Close, That's Something!

By IAN SMITH

Victoria College women's grass hockey team isn't the best in the city; the representative squad from Oak Bay High School has proven this twice.

But second best—that's another matter.

For the records have it that the College women have lost only to the Oak Bay squad, and this in a season when they have faced the best teams available.

Vikettes have twice humbled the usually strong Queen Margaret's School in Duncan, 2-1, and have also handed setbacks to Norfolk House (3-2), Esquimalt High (2-0) and Victoria High (1-0).

The latter three victories came in Bridgeman Cup play Nov. 9, a day that the whole team is proud to remember.

BEST EFFORT YET

Although Vikettes lost to Oak Bay High in the final, 1-0, it was the first time that a college team had even managed to get near the championship.

And at that they were improving. Three days before, the Bays had downed them, 2-0, in an exhibition encounter for their only other defeat of the season.

In addition to the Bridgeman Cup victories, the Vikettes in earlier exhibitions had tied Victoria Ladies, 1-1, and St. Margaret's, also by a 1-1 count.

But two weeks ago today, they scored what many consider their most decisive triumph—the 2-1 win over Queen Margaret's. And when they did it again last Saturday by an identical score, their supporters were quite ready to believe that they were at least second best on the Island.

AT VANCOUVER TODAY

But what about elsewhere? Today, at the University of British Columbia, they were seeking an answer to that question as they meet the UBC second team in what will probably be their last game of the season.

How did they feel before the game? "Well," says Ann Burridge, captain of the team and leading scorer with a total of seven goals, "we may not beat them—but I'm not giving up hope. If we play as well as I know we can, they'll certainly get a run for their money."

Maureen Bray, coach of the team, expressed similar sentiments. "We've got a fair team here, you know," she stated. "Just watch what happens."

SOCCER BERTH VERDICT SET BACK TWO WEEKS

Victoria soccer fans will have to wait at least another two weeks to learn if they have an entry in the Pacific Coast Soccer League next season.

Jim Lackie, who is heading the Victoria group attempting to regain a Victoria franchise in the summer loop, said this morning that he has been advised by league officials that a meeting scheduled at Vancouver Sunday, has been postponed until Dec. 9.

The meeting has been called to deal with franchise applications from Victoria and Nanaimo.

The league, which will start a new season in mid-April, now consists of four teams—Vancouver Halecos, North Shore, New Westminster and St. Andrews.

Hard Splits Easy, If You Know How

By GRAHAM COX

A couple of near-impossible splits took the spotlight in last week's tenpin bowling on city lanes, with both Bill Mound and Bob Montgomery making good on the tough ones.

Mound spared the "Big Four," a feat as difficult as rolling a perfect 300, on Wednesday night by hammering the 6-10 and bouncing the six off the back cushion to take out the seven, which toppled over to down the four. It's the hard way of doing the job, but scores just the same.

Montgomery threw possibly the thinnest ball of his career when he skidded the nine-pin across the back line of the alley to pick off the seven.

Arguments will rage over the luck or skill involved, but these two will be able to sit out the tiffs because they were the ones who did the job.

Something else creating a stir around the alleys, is a 10-pound ball for ladies. There's no real knowledge of how many ladies are actually using them right now, but odds are that there'll be many more before the season is out.

All they have to do is take a look at the score registered by Peggy Trickett. Using a 10-pounder, she rolled 550 in Gibson's Mixed League, Marg Beane, at 532, and Sid Anderson, 538 (201), topped the league's high bowlers.

Harold Paulding took high honors for the week, rolling in the Strathcona Senior Tenpin League, with his 610 (258) series to lead Cec Dixon 553, Tom Nute 544, Andy Palmer 581 (234), Wilf Smith 559.

High Commercial League scores were Lorne Elves 570, Bill Hitchin Sr. 534 (207), Jack Fletcher 549 (202) and A. Tipping 552 (218).

Big Man on the Gibson alleys was Strathcona proprietor Roy Beggs, when he rolled out a 592 (205, 230) series, leading Con McBeth 587 (223), Ron Wilson 580 (213, 200), Bill Coates 532, Wilf Bates 577 (210) and Ken Munn 536.

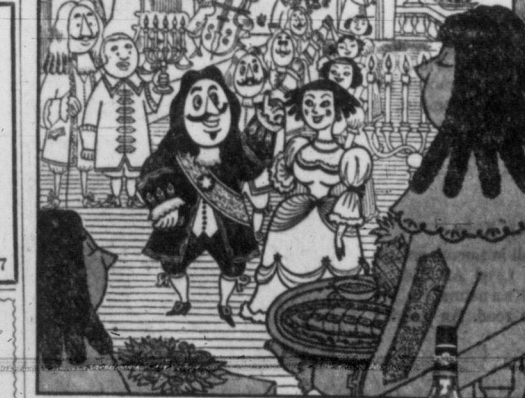

In the Commercial, Roy O'Kelly had 557 (202), Chuck Bennett 552 (211), B. Mowat 564, Vic Skinner 543 (203), Ken Munn 544 (212), Barney Barnwell 549 (201) and B. Hornby 553 while in the Friday Mixed League, A. Lewis scored 554 and Bob Eng 548.

Reg Waggoner again proved the hottest man in city fivepin circles as he led the city and Gibson's Commercial League with a fine 872 (330, 326) offering. But, perhaps the most consistent showing came from D. MacPherson who couldn't break 300 and still reached into the 826 bracket. He rolled single games of 287, 283 and 256.

Other Commercial fivepinners in the upper strata were R. Parker 840 (364), Cy Wallis 817 (315), Cec McRae 803 (305), Howie Butler 811 and E. Simmons 801 (308). Behind them were ranged Harry Cool

They Can Move If Band Plays On

Boston Bruins are on the march again but coach Milt Schmidt is afraid the band may stop playing.

Bruins beat second-place New York Rangers 1-0 Thursday night to move to within four points of Rangers. It was their second consecutive win over New York and they have only one loss in their last eight games. But Schmidt is studiously cautious about the future.

"We're starting to click and are ready to make the move. But all I want is one victory at a time. We need to take every game, or nearly every one," he said.

MEET LEAFS

Possibly one reason for Schmidt's caution is Bruins' game against the Maple Leafs in Toronto tonight. He remembers how Leafs stopped Bruins' season-opening winning streak at four games. The last-place Leafs whipped the Bruins 7-0 to start a downward spiral Bruins are recovering from now.

Toronto meets the Bruins without captain George (Big Chief) Armstrong. Armstrong suffered a torn ligament in Thursday's 3-3 tie with Detroit Red Wings and is out for a month.

Paul Masnick, 26-year-old centre from Regina, has been offered a 10-day tryout with the Leafs.

Masnick, who scored 24 goals for Rochester Americans of the American League last season, has been having contract difficulties with Montreal and refused to report to Rochester. Leafs have been given permission to deal with him.

At the same time Pete Conacher, Leafs' top training camp scorer with 11 goals, has been told to report to Buffalo Bisons of the AHL. Conacher was obtained by the Leafs from Buffalo for the $15,000 draft price. The Bisons will refund the $15,000.

New York, which met Detroit in an afternoon game today, was without scoring star Andy Bathgate. He suffered a deep skate cut Thursday and will

WHAT'S ON THE MOON?

With all the talk going around about man reaching the moon, the question is: What will he find when he gets there? Scientists, who have studied the moon over a distance of 240,000 miles for centuries, describe it as a rugged, dusty, lifeless globe. It has none of the earth's life-giving qualities, not even air. In man's earliest observations, light and dark areas were detected. Dark areas were believed to be water. These areas were given the name "maria," or seas. Later investigation revealed them to be dry plains. Some of the maria (see chart) are of tremendous size. Light areas on the moon are mountain ranges. Among the most impressive sights, easily discernible through even low-powered telescopes, are the craters. Scientists are not in agreement as to what caused them. Some believe they are the result of impact of meteors; others believe they were formed by volcanic activity in the centuries before the moon cooled. The moon is subjected to extreme temperatures. In the centre of the light side, it reaches 214 degrees, about the boiling point of water. Away from the sun, it drops to 250 degrees below zero.

16,400 Will Be Laid Off By Canada's Car Industry

TORONTO (CP)—More than 16,400 men and women will be laid off next week in Canada's auto industry.

Production slowdowns were announced Friday by Chrysler Corporation and General Motors. Both blamed rumors of a reduction in the excise tax on cars—the public was waiting for a price cut.

When Ford Motor Company last week announced a 2,400-man layoff for early December, it blamed "continuing shrinkage of the Canadian market."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Finance Minister Fleming declined comment on the layoffs or the possibility of a reduction in the federal tax on new cars.

General Motors president E. H. Walker said his company's Oshawa plant will close down Monday and Tuesday and all overtime work will be stopped.

A decision concerning further shutdowns would be made as soon as more was known about the government's tax plans.

Chrysler president Ron W. Hodgham said operations will be suspended for four days next week in Windsor. About 4,000 workers will be affected.

Mr. Todgham said: "Widely-circulated but unsubstantiated rumors stated that a reduction in the excise tax is imminent. The effect of this report has been to bring a complete halt to the shipment of cars from Canadian manufacturers to the dealer."

NEVER HAD DEFAULT

World Bank's Record Unique in Finance

WASHINGTON (UP)—By applying the methods of a small-town banker on a global basis, the world bank has achieved a unique record in international finance.

During 11 years of operation, it has loaned more than $3,100,000,000 for economic development projects in 44 countries. And it has never had a default—or a missed interest payment—on a loan.

Moreover, the bank has demonstrated that helping underdeveloped countries can be good business—even from the short-range viewpoint. It cleared a profit of $36 million on its loans during the 12 months which ended last June 30. Its reserves—largely built up out of past profits—now total $239 million.

That would be a good showing for any financial institution. It is doubly good for a bank that deliberately restricts its loans to comparatively high-risk situations where private capital is unavailable.

The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development—the official name of the world bank—was established in 1946 with a broad charter to "assist in the reconstruction and development of member countries by stimulating the international investment of capital."

Sixty-two nations now are members of the bank. Yugoslavia is the only Communist nation among them.

Although each member country has contributed some capital, the purchasing stock in the bank at $100,000 per share, the United States has put up slightly more than half of the $1,200,000,000 subscribed to date.

GUIDING GENIUS

A 17-member executive board elected by the member governments oversees the bank's operations. But the principal guiding genius is Eugene R. Black, a veteran U.S. banker from Atlanta, Ga., who has been president of the world bank since 1949.

It was Black who insisted on applying "traditional banking principles" to the tricky problems of financing railroads in Mexico, steel mills in India, hydro-electric dams in Rhodesia, new port facilities in Thailand.

These principles as interpreted by Black, will have a familiar ring to any businessman who has ever sought a loan from his home-town bank. The loan must be for a specific purpose—usually for equipment purchased abroad on competitive bidding. The bank investigates thoroughly to make sure that the project is economically sound, and that it will earn enough money to insure repayment of the loan on schedule. It insists that the borrower put a substantial portion of his own money into the project. And it charges a "realistic" interest rate.

The bank often lends money to private corporations but it requires that each loan be guaranteed by the government of the nation concerned—the same rule a regular commercial bank applies when it requires a new borrower to get someone of established credit to endorse his loan.

Russian Trade Mission Starts Canadian Visit

MONTREAL (CP)—A nine-man Russian trade delegation has arrived in Canada on a buying and selling mission and with an interest in acquiring equipment in a wide range of industrial machinery.

The group arrived here Thursday and will be in Canada for two or three weeks. It was announced by Montreal businessman Crosby Lewis, recently returned from a trip to Russia.

He said the group plans to deal directly with private businessmen. It is the first Russian trade delegation in Canada since one in 1955 which was primarily concerned with buying wheat.

WEEK IN BUSINESS

Further Signs Of Softness In Many Lines

By WALTER BREED, Jr.

NEW YORK (AP)—News of President Eisenhower's mild stroke jarred business sentiment this week. But the shock was temporary.

By week's end merchants, salesmen, bankers and brokers had apparently convinced themselves that the president's illness hadn't changed a thing.

The first announcement stirred fears that business confidence, already weakened by layoffs, cutbacks, Sputniks, a falling stock market and a shorter than normal Christmas shopping season might be in for a further jolt.

This queasiness was heightened by Tuesday's sickening plunge in stock prices. Then came word that Eisenhower was making rapid progress toward recovery. The stock market bounced back with a powerful upward surge.

Meanwhile, there was plenty of other news for businessmen to worry about.

Economists reported a continued downturn in industrial production, capital spending, inventory buying, exports and foreign investment. Higher prices still gnawed away at consumers' buying power.

Steel, backbone of the economy, showed further signs of softness this week. Production, at 73.6 per cent of capacity, dipped to 1,884,000 tons. It was 2,463,000 tons in Thanksgiving week last year.

Salesmen for steel companies were warned that they are entering the toughest market this industry has faced since 1954.

There were further signs of speedup in the U.S. rocket weapons program. The Atomic Energy Commission announced tentative plans for testing nuclear rocket propulsion, but said the tests probably wouldn't start until late next year.

Canada's Output Of Electricity Shows Big Gain

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's capacity to produce its own electricity showed a sharp increase in the 30-year period between 1926 and 1956, according to the bureau of statistics.

The October issue of the Bureau's Canadian Statistical Review says that in the period output of crude petroleum and natural gas showed a similar rapid rise but coal production declined.

In 1926 Canada imported 47.6 per cent of its energy requirements. This rose to 59.5 per cent in 1948 but declined to 37 per cent in 1956, reflecting a rapid increase in Canada's capacity to produce its own energy.

Taking 1948 as the base, production of crude petroleum rose from an index of three in 1926 to one of 1,388.2 in 1956. Output of natural gas rose from 20.7 in 1926 to 251.1 in 1956, but coal production declined from 89.3 to 80.8.

Production of electricity rose from an index of 25.7 in 1926 to one of 186.6 in 1956.

He told the Chamber of Commerce council will have the plan ready in the new year.

Stein Quits as B.C. Civil Defence Chief

Resignation of Maj.-Gen. C. R. S. Stein as B.C. civil defence co-ordinator was announced Friday by Provincial Secretary Wesley Black.

Gen. Stein, 61, has held the province's top civil defence post since 1951.

He said he is resigning to return to private life but has no immediate plans beyond a year's holiday.

The resignation is effective Dec. 31.

Mr. Black said he will make an announcement soon on a successor.

Brigadier G. A. McCarter, deputy co-ordinator, is next in line for the job.

Mr. Black said he accepted

Gen. Stein's resignation "with great regret."

"(He) has given outstanding services to the province and great leadership to municipalities and other authorities who are charged with the administration and education of the public in matters relating to civil defence," Mr. Black said.

The minister said Gen. Stein had expressed a desire to retire earlier this year but had been persuaded to stay on.

Gen. Stein said he has no complaints about the civil defence set-up in B.C.

"I have had everything I could have wanted, perhaps more, by way of co-operation on all levels of government,

MAJ.-GEN. STEIN

Employees of Mc & Mc Switch to Different Union

Change in unions representing 66 employees at McLennan, McFeely & Prior Ltd. has been approved by the Labor Relations Board.

Local 535, Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union, recently was certified as bargaining agent for the unit after the employees ousted the General Teamsters' Union, Local 885.

The retail, wholesale union, in a newsletter, charged the teamsters' officials with failing to hold shop meetings or take up grievances. It also said the teamsters had signed a "back door agreement" with the company at a secret meeting without seeking ratification by the members.

Robert Milliken, teamsters' business agent, accused the retail, wholesale union of raiding when it applied for certification several months ago.

Ludwig von Beethoven took his first music lesson from Franz Joseph Hayden in Vienna in 1792 at the age of 22.

Social Service Council Planned

Church Groups, Community Bodies To Meet Monday in Sidney Hotel

SIDNEY—Church groups and community organizations will meet at Hotel Sidney Monday at 8 p.m. to discuss establishment of a council of social service for the Sidney and North Saanich area.

Purpose of the organization would be to ensure that all persons in the area needing social assistance would be noted, and resources would be distributed equitably.

Invitations to the meeting were sent out over the signatures of Rev. W. Buckingham, Rev. I. Leclerc, and Rev. R. Melville.

"We have 20 organizations doing charitable work in this area," Mr. Buckingham said. "We hope to see the council act as a clearing house to make sure everyone is looked after, and to prevent overlapping."

Mr. Buckingham said the Monday meeting will mark the first attempt made at a project of this sort, and suggested that it could lead to a connection with the Greater Victoria community services.

He said that while no special need had arisen in the Sidney area to prompt formation of the council, "we do have unemployed, and people are still being laid off."

"We also are anxious, by voluntary effort, to assist the provincial health and welfare department in this area," Mr. Buckingham said. "The department has an excellent worker in this area, but she has a large territory to cover. We could save her a lot of time through preliminary investigations."

Representatives from the health and welfare department, citizenship and immigration, and police and the district nurse also have been invited.

Fluoridation Adopted by Island Town

DUNCAN (CP)—A fluoridation system will be installed at Mesachie Lake, the home of Hillcrest Lumber Company, "probably by the end of the year," company president Hector Stone said Thursday night while acting as chairman of a fluoridation meeting here.

"The water at Mesachie Lake runs heavily to iron," Mr. Stone said, "and we decided to take our water from Lake Cowichan."

"Tests were made and the water from the lake was found to be very good, but we were told that we would have to chlorinate it."

VANCOUVER ISLAND VIEWPOINT

A Double Edge

SIDNEY REVIEW — Announcement last week by Transport Minister George Hees that the estimates for his department would be submitted without change is a welcome one to the North Saanich district. Although the fact that those estimates contain provision for extensive work at the airport, there is no guarantee that the work will be carried out.

That decision will rest with the House of Commons when it is called upon to consider the departmental budget.

In the event of its acceptance, the construction work at the airport could represent a major works undertaking when it is most necessary. The construction of a new administration building would offer employment to many and would relieve the congestion of unemployment which threatens the province at the present time.

Wisdom

COURTENAY ARGUS—

Now that the government board of inquiry has handed down its recommendations on the proposed private development of the Campbell River waterfront, no one should jump to the conclusion the last chapter in the long controversy necessarily has been written.

Actually, only one phase of the matter has been settled, in that the government says under certain conditions it is prepared to lease, and later sell, crown-owned lands on the foreshore. There are several other hurdles to be overcome as the inquiry board's report points out, especially if the village commission wishes to continue its policy of opposing the scheme.

Considering the outcome of the inquiry and all the factors past and present as we know them, the Campbell River Village commission well could act with wisdom by giving the development corporation its blessing to proceed with the project.

Fishing Derby For Centennial

Up-Island Community Will Centre Celebration on Rod, Gun Club Show

CHEMAINUS — Centennial committee chairman Harry Ewart announced today that Chemainus' 1958 centennial celebrations will be centred around the Rod and Gun Club's annual salmon derby.

SCHOOL WORKER PAID TRIBUTE

DUNCAN (CP)—George E. Bonner, a long-time member of the school board and a former chairman, was honored Wednesday when Education Minister Leslie Peterson officially christened the new secondary school at Mill Bay after Mr. Bonner.

Mr. Peterson said the George E. Bonner secondary school is one of two such institutions in the province to receive the name of a person still living.

"The Rod and Gun Club has granted our committee permission to plan our centennial celebrations around their fine derby," he said.

"I think it is only right that we feature the salmon derby, since it is the biggest single event of the year in Chemainus and certainly one of the biggest fishing derbies of the year on Vancouver Island."

Plans call for three days of celebrations Aug. 22, 23 and 24. Weekend of celebrating will get underway on the Friday night with outdoor dances, entertainment and fireworks.

Feature attraction on the Saturday will be a giant outdoor barbecue with oysters and clam chowder. Three big barges will be anchored off the Kinsmen Park and beach and will serve as a stage for musical and theatrical presentations.

The salmon derby on the Sunday will be the feature event. An extra big prize list will be offered to entrants on the occasion of the centennial year. This year's derby drew over 700 entries, but centennial committee officials hope to attract a wide number of visitors, especially visiting yachtsmen, for both the 1958 barbecue and the derby.

WITH "RED TIDE" BAN LIFTED on Ladysmith area, oyster fisheries have begun shipping again. Peter Limberis forks oysters into barrow on Malamos lease, and shells on barge await disposal.—(Flett Studio photo)

30 Days Jail, $45 Fines For Licenceless Driver

DUNCAN (CP)—William George Suchar will serve 30 days in jail, and possibly 65 days in jail following conviction in police court here on three charges arising from a traffic accident Sept. 29.

The 21-year-old trucker's helper was slightly injured when he drove his car into a ditch. He left the district after being released from hospital and was not picked up by police until this week.

Magistrate A. C. Sutton sentenced Suchar to 30 days in jail, without option of a fine, on a charge of driving while his licence was suspended.

Suchar also drew a fine of $35 and costs, or an additional 30 days in jail, on a charge of driving without due care and attention. He was fined $10 or another consecutive five days in jail for failing to file a report on the accident.

Suchar told police he would try to raise the money for the fines.

Festival of Christmas Decorations Will Help Unfortunate Youngsters

The holiday spirit has already captured Victorians, many of whom are satisfying their impatience by making decorations now, in time for the annual Festival of Christmas decorations Dec. 11 and 12 in the Empress Hotel.

More than having their home decorations completed early (and perhaps winning a prize) they know their efforts are going to benefit unfortunate Victoria children.

All proceeds from the event go to the sponsoring organization, the Woman's Auxiliary to the Family and Children's Service.

Displays of miniature trees, door decorations, table centrepieces (large and small), mantelpiece arrangements, novelty ideas and gift-wrapped packages will be arranged in the Georgian Lounge and nearby corridors of the hotel. There will also be a special classification for students' displays.

Popular vote will decide the winners in all categories except the students' displays, which will be judged. (One popular-vote prize will also be awarded in this class).

First and second prizes will be awarded in each class, first prizes including silver cups which are awarded annually.

Entry forms may be obtained from Mrs. J. A. Baker, 5-2661, or Mrs. R. R. Wilde, 3-3994. They must be returned to Mrs. Baker, 2227 Lincoln Road, by Dec. 7—earlier if possible.

Deciding what to use for her entries in the Festival of Christmas decorations poses a problem for pretty Beverley Bark, who has entered the door and table competitions.

Getting together on table decorations ideas are, left to right, Mrs. Hugh Stephen, Mrs. D. S. Tuck and Mrs. Jack Todd. Festival display will be seen from 2 p.m. to 9.30 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 11, and from 10 a.m. to 9.30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 12.

Teenagers' Rock N' Roll Christmas Party at YWCA

Rock 'n' Roll dancing, fashion show and refreshments add up to a fun-filled Christmas party for Victoria teenagers on Saturday, Dec. 7. At 2.30 p.m. in the YWCA recreation room the event will get under way with a fashion show featuring dresses for holiday parties as well as casual, tailored and sports clothes.

Y-Teen models include Judy Marguardt, Margaret Hanzel, Victoria High; Jean Bartholemew, Diane Harris, Oak Bay High; Heather MacWilliam, Lorraine Grover, Mount View High; Lorraine Croxford, Susan Forrest, Mount Douglas High; Lovisa McKay and Gerry Kennedy, Esquimalt High. Sub-Deb model is Heather McLennan, Mount View High and Debette model is Ann Canhilla, Esquimalt High. Clothes are from T. Eaton Company.

A highlight of the afternoon will be entertainment by the "House Party Hop," well-known group which will play top tunes and rock 'n' roll numbers.

Marilyn Sommers and Dave Ridout, winners of many rock 'n' roll contests, will perform, and Jim Smith, "Victoria Elvis Presley," will pantomime to some of Elvis' records. The Chatelaine Club is sponsoring the party.

Don't Consider Them Fake Furs; They Are Beauties in Own Right

A new way to look at coats of man-made fibres is to regard them not as imitations of fur but as beauties in themselves, beauties with a plush look.

This is the attitude of designer Charles James, who has made use of Borgana for a collection of coats bearing his signature.

For his collection, he has used neutral colors for daytime and travel wear. Taupe, charcoal and beige. Stark white and a clear navy called celestial blue are reserved for late day. This particular blue is his choice for wear in place of black this winter.

For his collection Charles James has used face-framing collars, the cardigan and braid lapels. His sleeves go uncuffed and backs are narrow.

Many other well-known designers are climbing on the fur fabric bandwagon to make these coats a high style, as well as a utility item in the wardrobe of today's style-conscious woman.

Most new creations, especially those which are new to the point of being revolutionary are bound to be beset with some difficulties and the man-made pile fabrics have been no exception. But over a period of years the bugs have been removed and now we have pile fabrics which have, for some people, advantages over real fur.

They are, of course, less expensive, which is most important to our shoppers who, for the most part, fall into the moderate clothing budget group.

The deep-pile fabric coats are surprisingly lightweight which also suits our way of life as we are not faced with bitter below-freezing temperatures that call for heavy clothes.

Pile coats have been on the market a long enough time now so that the wearing quality may be judged quite fairly. With reasonable care, these coats, like Harris Tweed, just seem to go on and on.

It has now been found that the very best results are obtained by having such coats cleaned in the same manner as you would a genuine fur garment.

Yes, it's fake mink, but true glamour—this luxurious coat of mink-striped Borgana has its full share of style and beauty. Fairly-matched, softly matched, the stripes give the effect of full mink pelts—and the coat's classic fur coat styling heightens the illusion.

TODAY'S RECIPE

TWO-TONED WALNUT BARS

Walnuts in a chewy chocolate topping make these "Two-Toned Walnut Bars" a favorite with youngsters. Tuck a few of these cookies in school lunch baskets with a crisp red apple for an easy dessert. These cookies are made in two layers—the chocolate-walnut topping goes over a crunchy mixture of brown sugar, butter and flour.

Bottom Layer: 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 1/2 cup brown sugar (packed), 1/2 cup butter or margarine.

Top Layer: 2 eggs, 1/2 cup granulated sugar, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 2/3 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 2 tablespoons cocoa, 1/2 teaspoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2/3 cup chopped walnuts.

Bottom Layer: Blend together until crumbly flour, brown sugar and butter. Pack firmly in bottom of greased 8-inch square pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) 15 minutes.

Meanwhile prepare top layer. Top Layer: Beat eggs thoroughly. Gradually beat in sugar and vanilla. Sift together flour, cocoa, baking powder and salt, and fold into egg mixture. Blend in walnuts. Turn into pan over baked layer, and bake 25 to 30 minutes longer, or until top springs back when touched lightly. Cool. Cut into bars. Makes 24 bars.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

Personal Thank-You Notes Are Not Old-Fashioned:

After I have paid my respects at a funeral home and signed the register, I have lately been receiving printed acknowledgments. I didn't think that this was necessary and hope you can clear this up. Sometimes I receive printed or engraved messages of thanks for flowers and sympathy notes. Are personal thank-you notes something of the past? True, note writing is a task for I have been through it, but somehow I feel a compulsion to write them to thank friends for their special kindnesses. What is your opinion about the printed or engraved cards versus notes.

Louise Davis Answers:

Here I go sticking out my neck, for sure as anything, a few will write to protest. Acknowledgments of calls to funeral homes are not necessary, but there is no reason why families should not do it if they wish. They are expressions of appreciation for paying respects and it doesn't take very long to address the envelopes. But for flowers, telegrams and other deeds of kindness, I maintain that personal notes should be written whenever possible. Surely some can be written, no matter how grief-stricken the bereaved are. Relatives or friends can pitch in and do some of the writing. Example: "Dear Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin, Aunt Julia has asked me to thank you from the bottom of her heart for the basket of beautiful flowers you sent when Uncle Robert died. It gave great comfort to her and to all the family. Sincerely, Marilyn Matthews."

See how personal such a note is. Aunt Julia didn't write it, but she asked Marilyn to convey her thoughts. How much more thoughtful and personal than printed cards.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Maybe Exercise Club Is the Answer for You

Sports are fun because we have companionship and also because the element of competition enters in. That's why a figure molding class is so much more fun than doing exercises alone. You have company in your "misery" and also compete to see who can lose inches most effectively.

In many cities there are exercise clubs, stimulated by "Why Grow Old?" In these groups, neighborhood women get together and exercise five mornings a week after the children are off to school.

In some instances the women meet only once a week to compare notes and have a social get-together. On other days they exercise alone in their own homes. This weekly meeting is a great help. It puts the pressure on because you hate to go to meet your friends and report no progress when they are dropping inches each week.

There are several exercises it is fun to do together. For instance, one woman lies on the floor on her abdomen with her arms resting on the floor in front of her. The second woman holds the feet of the first down as the first raises her trunk, head and arms, up as high as she can. She slowly returns her trunk, head and arms to the floor. After a few times the two reverse positions.

The following exercise is a splendid toner and reducer for the abdomen. Two women sit facing one another. Both bend the knees and each woman locks her toes about the ankles of the other woman. Sit fairly close together. Keep the legs and feet in this position and lie down, arms resting on the floor overhead. Raise trunks and clap hands. Return trunks to the floor, arms overhead. This is fun to do.

If any of you would like to form a neighborhood exercise group and would like to have a collection of my exercise leaflets send 25 cents and a large self-addressed envelope with your request. Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

In her "Oscar" winning speech entitled "Memories," Mrs. Carter gave a brief history of the club pointing out that it had been the first toastmistress club chartered in the British Empire. A festive touch was added by Mrs. R. MacMillan in her "Spur" winning speech entitled "Invitation to the Dance."

Two new members, Mrs. S. A. Ratcliffe and Mrs. P. McAllister gave introductory speeches. Miss Helen Egan gave an informative education talk pointing out the necessity of modern women being able to listen to others effectively.

Impromptu talks were given by Mrs. Mickelson, Mrs. J. deBourcier and Miss Audrey Har-

Penny Went Fuel Shopping And Saved Many Dollars!

By PENNY SAVER

What an invigorating but chilly breeze met me as I left the house this morning. It was really November weather! Might be the time to bundle up and do some brisk walking or (for me) to just snuggle down by the radiator with a good book and soak up that heat!

If you are like me, the only problem you'd encounter would be finding some heat to curl up against! That's why I dropped into a local fuel store to see how the price stood on coal at present.

Got a kitchen range? These fuel question and save for winter days, when the family is demanding hot nourishing meals, you know how difficult it can be to have the range going all the time. But it's easy. I'm told, when you stake up with briquettes. These egg-shaped pieces of coal are quite light, so you get more for your money in a ton! Clean to handle too, and they last for hours in your stove or furnace. A ton is $25.20.

For overnight heating, you won't want a blazing fire in the furnace or range. While you're in bed the radiators don't need to be blowing heat out the open window to warm up the neighborhood! Stoker coal is for night use—it comes at $18.50 a ton and keeps the house moderately warm all night long.

Here's another type of coal that's suitable for the kitchen stove or a smaller fireplace. It goes by the name of "nut." It's economical besides being clean to burn. The price is really low at $15 a ton.

Here's a special type of coal (Diplomat). It is very high in standard and low, low, in price. In lump coal it comes at $18.75 a ton; $17.50 a ton for egg coal, and $15 for nut coal.

If you're economizing then this is your chance to beat the

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Soften instant minced onion in a little milk and add to beaten eggs for a hurry-up supper omelet. Top cooked omelet with cheese spread spooned from a can. Sprinkle with sliced tomatoes and buttered peas.

If your dinner menu sounds a bit sketchy, fill up with a hearty dessert. Thicken syrup from a can of cling peach slices, and spice to your taste. Pour over peach slices in shallow baking dish. Half package of pie crust mix makes a quick crust.

Handicrafts, Dolls, Hats In Collection for Germany

BONN, Germany (Reuters)—Mrs. Ethel Mulvaney, 52, of Honora, Manitoulin Island, Ont., has come to Germany hoping to make friends and money with a collection of hats, dolls and handicraft work from all over the world.

"I have just about the most remarkable collection of hats presented to me by famous people," she says.

"They have been given by the King of Greece, Princess Wilhelmina of The Netherlands, the Lord Provost of Edinburgh and the Soviet and West German governments among others. And a very important one was from Don Mackay, the mayor of Calgary."

Mrs. Mulvaney is the organizer of a travelling exhibition and salesroom whose aim is to make money for the World University Service, a student organization which tries to help needy students everywhere.

The hats are not for sale, but handiwork from Mexico, India, Greece, Japan and Canada can be bought.

After Bonn, the exhibition and sale will move on for two days each at seven other university towns in West Germany.

Cathedral choir boys singing "Praise My Soul the King of Heaven" preceded the bridal party into the church which was decorated for the service with large bouquets of white chrysanthemums. HOUSE OF DIOR 'SACKS' SACK

LONDON (UPI)—The House of Christian Dior sacked the sack this week for a line that defied any stereotyped fashion label.

The first London fashion showing since the "king of couturiers" died last month proved that his house was continuing the high tradition of Dior's haute couture. Yet there was no single style, such as his "new look" of 1947 or the pencil-slim sack of last season.

Instead there was a supple, moving line in a variety of silhouettes. Most of the dresses and coats—and even the straight casual fitted suits—were those that would stand the test of many seasons.

All the creations were designed or supervised by Dior before his death. So it still remains to be seen whether 21-year-old Yves Mathieu Saint-Laurent will be able to fill the shoes of his late master.

The youthful heir to the Dior throne has until Christmas to produce some 400 sketches that will form the basis for the 1958 spring Paris collection.

Man enough to be given a fine watch—still boy enough to be unable to hide his bursting pride—this is one of those touching moments that stays with you always. For even when he has children of his own, he will still say proudly and affectionately “It's from Birks”—and remember with tenderness the love that bestowed on him only the best. To

IT'S HER BIG DAY

TORONTO WHOOPS IT UP

B.C. 'Plugs' Centennial In Mammoth Cup Parade

TORONTO (CP)—It took a while, but Grey Cup City erupted today into the sound and color traditionally associated with Canada's foremost sports spectacle.

The fuse was lit at all-night parties and by howling crowds in the downtown hotel lobbies.

Crowds that were subdued Thursday and relatively quiet early Friday began to whoop it up during the night and never stopped. Today, as the bands and majorettes arrived, the crowds met the special trains and Grey Cup fervor rolled to a peak.

GIANT PARADE

It exploded in the annual mammoth pre-game parade.

The colors of the competing teams—Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Hamilton Tiger-Cats—predominated, but also seen were the green and gold of Edmonton and the red and white toques of the hollering Habitués from Montreal.

The kilted 48th Highlanders of Canada Band led off the parade as a pipe-wailing escort to Carol Lucas, 18, of Burnaby, B.C., queen of this year's Grey Cup. She sat chilled on the back of a snappy convertible she won as Miss Grey Cup, 1957.

Of the 122 units in the parade, 17 were bands and 17 were marching units. The British Columbia entries, 22 units, alone cost more than $24,000. The parade took an hour to pass any given point.

One British Columbia costumed a huge flying saucer with dog-masked driver and spacemen from Comox. It was one of the hits of the parade.

Theme of the British Columbia entries was "Visit British Columbia in 1958 and take in the Grey Cup."

BANDSMEN HURT IN CUP PARADE

TORONTO (CP)—Five bandmen of the Montreal Alouettes 45-piece band were reported injured during the Grey Cup parade today when a horse drawing a buggy in the Calgary Stampeder unit bolted.

The horse, dragging the buggy, ran into the Alouette band.

The accident happened on Yonge Street.

'T-BRICKS FOR KOREA'

$19, Year's Saving In Pennies Donated

(Today's Donation List, Page 33)

Many of the donations pouring into The Times "T-Bricks for Korea" fund represent the personal sacrifice of Victorians to whom giving is far more important than keeping.

The anonymous "Mr. Pen-

Friday night the elderly gentleman was talking about our Korean fund with Harold Lees of Lees' Candy Store, 643

Yates. "Mr. Pennies" isn't well-to-do, but he wanted to help. All of a sudden, he knew that he could. He had a cigar box at home that contained $19 in pennies. He had been saving them for a year.

And, Mr. Lees said today, he promised to bring the cigar box to the store, where it would be forwarded to The Times.

"Tell them I don't want my name used," he said to Mr. Lees. "Just call me Mr. Pennies."

His pennies will buy 190 bricks—at 10 cents each—to help build an outpatient TB pavilion for children of Seoul, Korea. Indirectly the bricks will build up the hunger-weakened, diseased bodies of tiny Korean children.

Overnight The Times received $343.60. We now have $1,711.88. We need $12,000 and we have only 25 days in which to receive donations.

Send yours today to The Victoria Daily Times, Douglas Street or take them to The Times downtown office, Broad Street.

Winnipeg Fumbles Grey Cup

(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

TORONTO—Hamilton's powerful and alert Tiger-Cats scored early and late to rout the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, 32-7, today and return the Grey Cup to the east for the first time in four years.

Fumbles proved the downfall of the Winnipeg club. Seven times they fumbled and six of them were recovered by the Tiger-Cats. Four of the fumbles were responsible for Hamilton touchdowns.

Hamilton, which beat Winnipeg, 12-6, four years ago, scored twice in the first three minutes and then added three more touchdowns in the first 10 minutes of the final quarter. Gerry McDougall, Hamilton's twisting, driving 221-pound fullback, paced Hamilton with a pair of touchdowns on runs of 27 and five yards.

afternoon, raced 50 yards with a fumble for the first major of the game. Quarterback Bernie Faloney ran six yards and Cookie Gilchrist, Hamilton's other 221-pound back got the Tiger-Cats final touchdown on a 16-yard end run.

Hamilton built up a 32-0 lead before substitute quarterback, Canadian Barry Roseborough, playing for the injured Kenny Floon, tossed 15 yards to Dennis Mendyk for the lone major by the western champions. It came with only four minutes to play and gave Winnipeg the consolation of averting a shut-out.

FAN TRIPS PLAYER

The game was marred by a fourth-quarter incident when a fan on the sidelines tripped Hamilton's touchdown-bound Bawel as he raced down the sidelines. Bawel had intercepted a pass at the Hamilton 40 and was sent sprawling by the fan, standing amidst Bomber players on the touch-lines near the Winnipeg bench at the Bomber 42.

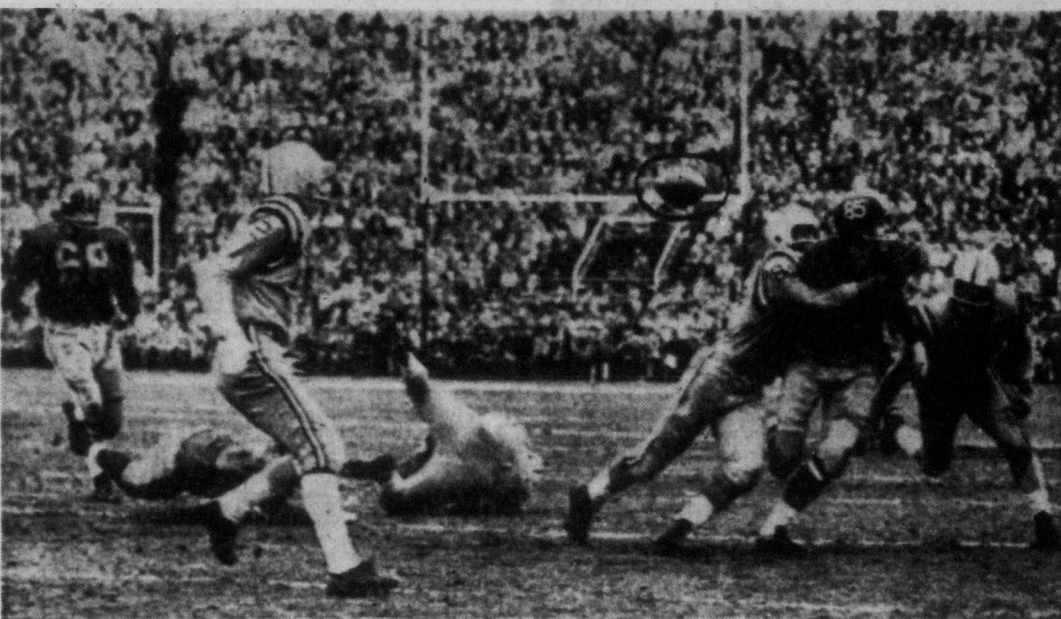

Officials, after a short conference, gave the Tiger-Cats possession on the Winnipeg 21. This was the first time in the 49-year history of the cup that a fan had interfered with play. As it turned out, Tiger-Cats didn't suffer by it. They went on to score in two plays, Gilchrist going around the end for his second touchdown of the afternoon from the 16-yard line. That, with the convert, made it 32-0.

The Bombers, who dressed only 11 Americans, were seeking the fourth straight title for the West. The last three years Edmonton Eskimos, winning the western title, have gone on to take the trophy.

The game was witnessed by a crowd of more than 27,000, including Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who performed the honorary Kickoff.

Rocket Plunge 'Due in Hours'

CAMBRIDGE, MASS. (UP)—Astronomer Dr. Fred L. Whipple predicted today Sputnik I's rocket will plummet to earth between 5 p.m. and 9 p.m. (2 p.m. and 6 p.m. PST) today. He said he believed it would fall in the eastern hemisphere.

"It's not possible to predict exactly where it is going to land," said Whipple, director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory.

"But the probability is better that it will fall on the eastern hemisphere," he added.

Whipple said "it could conceivably fall over Japan, Eastern Asia or any of the countries in that area."

SIGHTING REPORTED

Whipple said his prediction was based on an observation from Jodrell Bank Observatory in England which reported sighting the rocket at 10:18 EST (7:18 PST) today.

"This leads us to believe that the current period of the rocket is about 88.2 minutes," he said. That figure represents the time it takes the rocket to circle the earth.

Whipple said that the rocket probably would orbit the earth "four to eight" more times before expiring.

Whipple said "it is not impossible for the rocket to fall over North America, but it looks more probable that it will land in the eastern hemisphere."

Dr. Whipple has predicted the final plunge of the rocket should be visible, whether it is day or night—as it starts to burn from friction with the atmosphere.

The scientist said he believed the object could survive the terrific friction of the atmosphere. If it lands where it could be recovered, Whipple said "The solidly constructed parts such as the rocket motor, should come through without being badly destroyed."

Antarctic Ship Hit by Iceberg Dumping Cargo

LONDON (AP)—With a damaged hull, a British scientific research ship limped into a frozen island in the South Atlantic today after striking an iceberg on her way to the Antarctic.

Last word from the 1,100-ton survey ship Shackleton said she had reached Uruguay Cove on Laurie Island and that she was dumping her cargo as water poured in between decks.

The message said lifeboats were lowered in preparation to abandon ship. An attempt was being made to beach her.

Lakehead Airport Burned

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—A fire that caused close to $1,000,000 damage hit the Lakehead Airport on the outskirts of Fort William Friday night, destroying two hangars, the control tower and at least 11 planes.

A Trans-Canada Air Lines flight with eight passengers and a crew of three aboard landed without radio contact with the ground during the blaze.

Capt. Wallie Davies, pilot of the DC-3 from Toronto, said he had been informed of the fire and sighted it from about five miles out. He landed without difficulty but took his plane to Winnipeg without passengers because the fire knocked out storage facilities for the normal overnight stopover.

The plane had to refuel far from the terminal because of the flames.

Two shifts of firemen and all city equipment were called out after the blaze broke out and quickly roared through Second World War hangars occupied by the Thunder Bay Flying Club and Superior Airways Limited, only commercial service based at the airport.

F. J. Ginter, chief controller at the airport for the transport department, estimated the damage at close to $1,000,000. He said five single-engine planes, including three Aeronaucs, one Chipmunk and one Piper Tri-Pacer, were destroyed in the flying club hangar.

Tottenham Beats Champs

LONDON (Reuters)—Tottenham Hotspurs registered its first away win of the English season today, defeating league champion Manchester United 4-3 in a thrill-packed First Division game.

It was United's first home defeat by a London team since 1938. Luck was against the Manchester club, which had to field four reserves, including Dave Gaskell, a 17-year-old replacement for goalkeeper Ray Wood, who collapsed in the street Friday night and is in hospital.

The Wolverhampton Wanderers consolidated their place at the top of the First Division, beating Burnley 2-1 to preserve an unbeaten home record. With 31 points, Wanderers lead by three points over West Bromwich Albion, which drew 3-3 against last-place Leicester City.

CELEBRATES 83RD BIRTHDAY

Sir Winston Churchill leaves his London house en route to his country residence at Chartwell, Kent, where today he celebrated his birthday at a family party. Only other guest was Field Marshal Montgomery. (AP wirephoto)

'Grand Old Man' Starts 84th Year

LONDON (UP)—Sir Winston Churchill celebrated his 83rd birthday today, his once-powerful body bowed under the weight of the years.

The statesman who guided Britain through its "finest hour," took time out from work on the last volume of his massive four-volume "History of the English-Speaking Peoples" to observe the anniversary.

It was a quiet celebration at the Churchill home at Chartwell, in the country, near London. Only members of the family and Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, the victor of El Alamein, shared in the celebration.

Churchill's son Randolph, and his daughters, Diana and Mary, were at Chartwell to help their father celebrate. The other daughter, Sarah, an actress, is in the United States.

Most of Churchill's nine grandchildren also were there to watch him cut the huge birthday cake, topped with a single but big candle.

Churchill no longer has the physical strength for prolonged festivities. The years have taken their toll of the sturdy figure which served him in his adventure-filled career from the Boer War through the Second World War.

Montgomery, almost as flamboyant a figure as his former chief, disclosed he was greeting the old warrior with the Churchillian phrase: "Sir, I salute you with 83 salutes from a hundred thousand guns."

Earlier this week, Montgomery filmed a special introduction to an American television program on Churchill's career which will be screened tonight by Britain's independent television network.

In it, Montgomery saluted Churchill "as the greatest Englishman of all time."

Four Bodies Discovered In Fire Ruins

HOPE, B.C. (CP)—A coroner's inquiry will be held next week into the deaths of four men whose bodies were found in the charred ruins of a shack east of here Friday.

The shack, located near the Canadian National Railways tracks on the north side of the Coquihalla River, burned to the ground last weekend.

RCMP speculated the four, all believed in their 60s, had a party, fell asleep and were burned when the shack caught fire.

One RCMP officer said the bodies were so badly burned that identification was impossible.

The bodies were discovered by Vancouver hunter Walter Payment.

No date for the inquiry has been set.

Spain, Morocco 'Fierce Battles'

MADRID (Reuters)—Morocco today accused Spain of air and land attacks on Moroccan territory outside the Spanish enclave of Ifni on the Atlantic coast.

The accusation came as Spanish forces were reported engaged in "fierce battles" with Moroccan irregular troops in Ifni.

In a statement issued here, the Moroccan embassy said the Spanish army and air force had made "numerous attacks" on Moroccan territory.

Labor Party To Take Over In N. Zealand

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (CP)—Labor unseated the National government in New Zealand's general elections and will return to power after an absence of eight years, final unofficial returns showed tonight.

The figures gave Labor 41 seats in the 80-seat Parliament to 38 for the National party of Prime Minister Keith Holyoake.

Another seat will be contested in January.

Voting in the one constituency was postponed because of the death of one of the candidates. Observers believe the National party should retain the seat—which would mean just a two-seat parliamentary margin for the new Labor government.

Walter Nash heads the Labor party, in power in New Zealand from 1935 to 1949.

Proxy votes remain to be counted, but most political quarters believe they will favor Labor.

The preliminary count showed that Labor polled 508,981 votes to the National party's 458,801. The Social Credit League got 75,135 votes.

Labor won most support in the cities and bigger provincial towns. National party candidates held the country areas.

Four Communist candidates polled only 526 votes among them.

In the outgoing Parliament, the National party had 45 seats and Labor 35.

"Don't tell us that," some of the more than 1,000 persons attending the meeting yelled. "Give us jobs."

The meeting was sponsored by the Vancouver Labor Council and ended with a spate of resolutions calling for increased public and private spending to create more jobs.

ORDER RESTORED

Soon after Mr. Taylor began to speak there were calls of "Sit down" and "we want jobs."

Council president Lloyd Whelan restored order. Then, as Mr. Taylor described federal government moves to put money into the economy, the shouting became more insistent and dozens of persons began to move out into the lobby of the auditorium where the rally was held.

"I see that I must sit down," said Mr. Taylor as Mr. Whelan spoke to him. He left the platform soon after.

Civic and union officials told the rally that more than 300,000 Canadians are out of work and the situation is the worst since the "hungry '30s." One out of 10 workers, 500,000 men, will be jobless before spring, speakers said.

JOB ONLY HELP

British Columbia Liberal leader Arthur Loing said in reference to unemployment insurance that "only a job will fill the needs of those without a job."

The rally's revolution also called for increased trade, particularly with Asian countries and further expansion of the federal housing scheme, particularly for low-cost homes.

Representatives of CCF, Social Credit, Conservative and Liberal parties were on hand and there were telegrams from others regretting their inability to be present personally.

French Assembly Okays Gaillard Algerian Plans

PARIS (AP)—The French National Assembly Friday night approved plans for restricted home rule in war-torn Algeria but the plans had already been rejected by rebel leaders as insufficient to stop the three-year war.

Two bills were passed on votes of confidence in Premier Felix Gaillard's government after the young premier had rejected a Moroccan-Tunisian offer to mediate the Algerian rebellion.

Gaillard succeeded where the last government met its downfall, ramming the bills through a turbulent assembly. His 312-week-old government won majorities of 269 to 200 and 267 to 200.

AILING PRESIDENT DOWN ON FARM

President Eisenhower and Mamie displayed broad smiles as they arrive at Gettysburg, Pa., farm home after drive from Washington. Ike plans indefinite vacation to recover from recent cerebral attack. (AP wirephoto)

WHAT'S YOUR OPINION? Eisenhower's Progress Said 'Excellent'

By JOHN MIKA and IRVING STRICKLAND

Question: Do you think President Eisenhower of the U.S., who carried a great load during the Second World War, should attempt to carry on as leader of the most powerful nation in the free world when, at the age of 67, his health obviously is precarious?

Charles Dickinson, 1600 Hampshire: "If he and his advisers think he is in a position to carry on, I would say that certainly he should not retire. I consider him a very efficient and great man. He's honest and generous, which is very refreshing in a politician. It would be unfortunate if the free world was to lose his leadership, unless that was absolutely necessary for his health's sake."

Jack McLeod, 1174 Hadfield: "I feel he should step down and let some man take the job who's capable of handling it. Eisenhower definitely is not in good health and he should retire. If a man was as sick as he is, do you think any business would hire him? Three major illnesses are three too many for a man in so important a position. The economy of the U.S. and even of Canada, depends on a strong leader in Washington. Look how the stock markets, Canadian as well as U.S., react because of his illnesses."

Mrs. Mary Riedlmayer, 1007 Esquimalt Road: "If he's sick, and he certainly seems to be, then he shouldn't remain as president of the U.S. A sick man can't keep interested in what's going on around the world. He also is getting too old for the kind of responsibility that goes with his job."

Morris Phillips, 833 1/2 Fort: "I certainly don't think that Eisenhower should continue as president. A man has to be in terrific physical shape to withstand the strain of an office like that and it would only be murder to leave him in the White House when he's been sick so often. He's loved by his people but in today's world you need more than that kind of qualification for the U.S. presidency or else the whole free world will suffer."

Mrs. Judy Barclay, 1274 Topaz: "Of course Eisenhower should stay in office if his illness is mild. I think the doctors would say so if he was seriously sick. I don't think his age matters, look at Sir Winston Churchill and how long he remained in office."

CCFer Charges Vets Denied Treatment

OTTAWA (CP)—H. W. Herridge protested in the Commons Friday that male immigrants are receiving treatment at Shugness Military Hospital in Vancouver but war veterans are being denied admission.

Veterans Minister A. J. Brooks said the complaint would be investigated provided Mr. Herridge gave the department particulars.

The CCF member for Kootenay West said Shugness Hospital was built to care for men who fought for this country. War veterans were being turned away while male immigrants were receiving hospital services, dentures and glasses.

Certain female immigrants and children were getting a type of out-patient service.

Mr. Brooks said no eligible veteran is refused entry to the hospital. However, Mr. Herridge said many needy veterans do not qualify under regulations and are prohibited from receiving treatment.

"I suggest that no needy or destitute veteran in Canada, regardless of the present regulations, should be denied admission when we can make provision for other persons," he said.

WHAT'S ON THE MOON?

With all the talk going around about man reaching the moon, the question is: What will he find when he gets there? Scientists, who have studied the moon over a distance of 240,000 miles for centuries, describe it as a rugged, dusty, lifeless globe. It has none of the earth's life-giving qualities, not even air. In man's earliest observations, light and dark areas were detected. Dark areas were believed to be water. These areas were given the name "maria," or seas. Later investigation revealed them to be dry plains. Some of the maria (see chart) are of tremendous size. Light areas on the moon are mountain ranges. Among the most impressive sights, easily discernible through even low-powered telescopes, are the craters. Scientists are not in agreement as to what caused them. Some believe they are the result of impact of meteors; others believe they were formed by volcanic activity in the centuries before the moon cooled. The moon is subjected to extreme temperatures. In the centre of the light side, it reaches 214 degrees, about the boiling point of water. Away from the sun, it drops to 250 degrees below zero.

WEEK IN BUSINESS

Further Signs Of Softness In Many Lines

By WALTER BREEDE, Jr.
NEW YORK (AP)—News of President Eisenhower's mild stroke jarred business sentiment this week. But the shock was temporary.
By week's end merchants, salesmen, bankers and brokers had apparently convinced themselves that the president's illness hadn't changed a thing.
The first announcement stirred fears that business confidence, already weakened by layoffs, cutbacks, Sputniks, a falling stock market and a shorter than normal Christmas shopping season might be in for a further jolt.

This queasiness was heightened by Tuesday's sickening plunge in stock prices. Then came word that Eisenhower was making rapid progress toward recovery. The stock market bounced back with a powerful upward surge.

WORRISOME NEWS
Meanwhile, there was plenty of other news for businessmen to worry about.
Economists reported a continued downturn in industrial production, capital spending, inventory buying, exports and foreign investment. Higher prices still gnawed away at consumers' buying power.

Steel, backbone of the economy, showed further signs of softness this week. Production, at 73.6 per cent of capacity, dipped to 1,884,000 tons. It was 2,463,000 tons in Thanksgiving week last year.

Salesmen for steel companies were warned that they are entering the toughest market this industry has faced since 1954.
There were further signs of speedup in the U.S. rocket weapons program. The Atomic Energy Commission announced tentative plans for testing nuclear rocket propulsion, but said the tests probably wouldn't start until late next year.

Uncertainty Hits Canadian Markets

By BON ANDREWS
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Uncertainty—a bugbear of stock markets—pushed prices into a vulnerable position this week on Canadian stock exchanges following President Eisenhower's illness.

On Tuesday prices of key issues tumbled freely and trading in the final 15 minutes on the Toronto and Montreal exchanges was heavier than in any hour during the rest of the session.

Unlike the two preceding Eisenhower illnesses—the first in Sept., 1955, and the second in June, 1956—the markets rebounded the next day almost as suddenly as they had dropped off.

The issues which lost the most Tuesday regained at least three-quarters of their declines in the first hour Wednesday. The rally continued in Canada Thursday and Friday.

WHY DO THEY?
Why do stock markets react in such a depressing manner to news of the president's illness? Brokers say uncertainty causes the sell-offs. This arises not because the president is ill but rather about the outcome should he be incapacitated and have to resign.

A change in the U.S. presidency could mean a change in thought towards industry and other factors which affect the market.

As far as Canadian markets are concerned a change in the American government would indirectly affect them. They follow Wall Street's pattern in most cases and if the New York market tumbled or rose, markets in Canada, in all probability, would do likewise.

MARKET CHANGES
Index changes this week at Toronto: Industrials up 1.88 to 411.32; golds up .25 to 70.12; base metals up .22 to 154.30.

MOSCOW (AP)—The Presidium of the U.S.S.R. Academy of Sciences announced plans Friday for creation of a scientific centre in the Siberian city of Irkutsk. The announcement said nine institutes, primarily chemical, geological and geographical, would be established at Irkutsk as a branch of the Siberian Academy of Sciences.

16,400 Will Be Laid Off By Canada's Car Industry

TORONTO (CP)—More than 16,400 men and women will be laid off next week in Canada's auto industry.
Production slowdowns were announced Friday by Chrysler Corporation and General Motors. Both blamed rumors of a reduction in the excise tax on cars—the public was waiting for a price cut.
When Ford Motor Company last week announced a 2,400-man layoff for early December, it blamed "continuing shrinkage of the Canadian market."
Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Finance Minister Fleming declined comment on the layoffs or the possibility of a reduction in the federal tax on new cars.

General Motors president E. H. Walker said his company's Oshawa plant will close down Monday and Tuesday and all overtime work will be stopped. A decision concerning further shutdowns would be made as soon as more was known about the government's tax plans.
Chrysler president Ron W. Hodgham said operations will be suspended for four days next week in Windsor. About 4,000 workers will be affected.
Mr. Todgham said: "Widely-circulated but unsubstantiated rumors stated that a reduction in the excise tax is imminent. The effect of this report has been to bring a complete halt to the shipment of cars from Canadian manufacturers to the dealer."

A Ford Company spokesman said the company will go ahead with its plans for reduced production but further layoffs are not planned.

Canada's Output Of Electricity Shows Big Gain

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's capacity to produce its own electricity showed a sharp increase in the 30-year period between 1926 and 1956, according to the bureau of statistics.
The October issue of the Bureau's Canadian Statistical Review says that in the period output of crude petroleum and natural gas showed a similar rapid rise but coal production declined.
In 1926 Canada imported 47.6 per cent of its energy requirements. This rose to 59.5 per cent in 1948 but declined to 37 per cent in 1956, reflecting a rapid increase in Canada's capacity to produce its own energy.

Taking 1948 as the base, production of crude petroleum rose from an index of three in 1926 to one of 1,388.2 in 1956. Output of natural gas rose from 20.7 in 1926 to 251.1 in 1956, but coal production declined from 89.3 to 80.8.
Production of electricity rose from an index of 25.7 in 1926 to one of 186.6 in 1956.

Australia Needs Wheat From Canada

MELBOURNE (Reuters)—The Australian wheat board has asked federal government permission to import Canadian wheat, it was reported here tonight.

Board chairman Sir John Teasdale said the shipments would go to New South Wales and Queensland, whose own wheat crops had been hit by drought.

Teasdale said Canadian wheat could be shipped to New South Wales and Queensland at about the same price as western Australian wheat could be transported to those states.

"Unless something is done Australia is in great danger of losing her overseas wheat market," he said.

It was too late to import the full 20,000,000 bushels needed for emergency requirements in the area, Teasdale said. He added that some shipments already have been sent to New South Wales and Queensland.

Nanaimo 5-Year Plan To Cost 22.5 Mills

NANAIMO (CP)—City council is preparing a five-year plan to spread out the cost of civic projects representing a total cost of 22.5 mills, Acting Mayor Alderman Haig Burns said Thursday.
He told the Chamber of Commerce council will have the plan ready in the new year.

World Bank's Record Unique in Finance

WASHINGTON (UP)—By applying the methods of a small-town banker on a global basis, the world bank has achieved a unique record in international finance.
During 11 years of operation, it has loaned more than $3,100,000,000 for economic development projects in 44 countries. And it has never had a default—or a missed interest payment—on a loan.
Moreover, the bank has demonstrated that helping underdeveloped countries can be good business—even from the short-range viewpoint. It cleared a profit of $36 million on its loans during the 12 months which ended last June 30. Its reserves—largely built up out of past profits—now total $239 million.
That would be a good showing for any financial institution. It is doubly good for a bank that deliberately restricts its loans to comparatively high-risk situations where private capital is unavailable.
The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development—the official name of the world bank—was established in 1946 with a broad charter to assist in the reconstruction and development of member countries by stimulating the international investment of capital.
Sixty-two nations now are members of the bank. Yugoslavia is the only Communist nation among them.
Although each member country has contributed some capital (by purchasing stock in the bank at $100,000 per share), the United States has put up slightly more than half of the $1,200,000,000 subscribed to date.

principles to the tricky problems of financing railroads in Mexico, steel mills in India, hydroelectric dams in Rhodesia, new port facilities in Thailand.

These principles as interpreted by Black, will have a familiar ring to any businessman who has ever sought a loan from his home-town bank. The loan must be for a specific purpose—usually for equipment purchased abroad on competitive bidding. The bank investigates thoroughly to make sure that the project is economically sound, and that it will earn enough money to insure repayment of the loan on schedule. It insists that the borrower put a substantial portion of his own money into the project. And it charges a "realistic" interest rate.

The bank often lends money to private corporations but it requires that each loan be guaranteed by the government of the nation concerned—the same rule a regular commercial bank applies when it requires a new borrower to get someone of established credit to endorse his loan.

Russian Trade Mission Starts Canadian Visit

MONTREAL (CP)—A nine-man Russian trade delegation has arrived in Canada on a buying and selling mission and with an interest in acquiring equipment in a wide range of industrial machinery.
The group arrived here Thursday and will be in Canada for two or three weeks, it was announced by Montreal businessman Crosby Lewis, recently returned from a trip to Russia.
He said the group plans to deal directly with private businessmen. It is the first Russian trade delegation in Canada since one in 1955 which was primarily concerned with buying wheat.

Stein Quits as B.C. Civil Defence Chief

Resignation of Maj.-Gen. C. R. S. Stein as B.C. civil defence co-ordinator was announced Friday by Provincial Secretary Wesley Black.

Gen. Stein, 61, has held the province's top civil defence post since 1951.

He said he is resigning to return to private life but has no immediate plans beyond a year's holiday.

The resignation is effective Dec. 31.

Mr. Black said he will make an announcement soon on a successor.

Brigadier G. A. McCarter, deputy co-ordinator, is next in line for the job.

Mr. Black said he accepted

Gen. Stein's resignation "with great regret."

"(He) has given outstanding services to the province and great leadership to municipalities and other authorities who are charged with the administration and education of the public in matters relating to civil defence," Mr. Black said.

The minister said Gen. Stein had expressed a desire to retire earlier this year but had been persuaded to stay on.

Gen. Stein said he has no complaints about the civil defence set-up in B.C.

"I have had everything I could have wanted, perhaps more, by way of co-operation on all levels of government,

MAJ.-GEN. STEIN

Employees of Mc & Mc Switch to Different Union

Change in unions representing 66 employees at McLennan, McFeely & Prior Ltd. has been approved by the Labor Relations Board.

Local 535, Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Union, recently was certified as bargaining agent for the unit after the employees ousted the General Teamsters' Union, Local 885.

The retail, wholesale union, in a newsletter, charged the teamsters' officials with failing to hold shop meetings or take up grievances. It also said the teamsters' had signed a "back door agreement" with the company at a secret meeting without seeking ratification by the members.

Robert Milliken, teamsters' business agent, accused the retail, wholesale union of raiding when it applied for certification several months ago.

Ludwig von Beethoven took his first music lesson from Franz Joseph Hayden in Vienna in 1792 at the age of 22.

Social Service Council Planned

Church Groups, Community Bodies To Meet Monday in Sidney Hotel

SIDNEY—Church groups and community organizations will meet at Hotel Sidney Monday at 8 p.m. to discuss establishment of a council of social service for the Sidney and North Saanich area.

Purpose of the organization would be to ensure that all persons in the area needing social assistance would be noted, and resources would be distributed equitably.

Invitations to the meeting were sent out over the signatures of Rev. W. Buckingham, Rev. I. Leclerc, and Rev. R. Melville.

"We have 20 organizations doing charitable work in this area," Mr. Buckingham said. "We hope to see the council act as a clearing house to make sure everyone is looked after, and to prevent overlapping."

Mr. Buckingham said the Monday meeting will mark the first attempt made at a project of this sort, and suggested that it could lead to a connection with the Greater Victoria community services.

He said that while no special need had arisen in the Sidney area to prompt formation of the council, "we do have unemployed, and people are still being laid off."

"We also are anxious, by voluntary effort, to assist the provincial health and welfare department in this area," Mr. Buckingham said. "The department has an excellent worker in this area, but she has a large territory to cover. We could save her a lot of time through preliminary investigations."

Representatives from the health and welfare department, citizenship and immigration, and police and the district nurse also have been invited.

Fluoridation Adopted by Island Town

DUNCAN (CP) — A fluoridation system will be installed at Mesachie Lake, the home of Hillcrest Lumber Company, "probably by the end of the year," company president Hector Stone said Thursday night while acting as chairman of a fluoridation meeting here.

"The water at Mesachie Lake runs heavily to iron," Mr. Stone said, "and we decided to take our water from Lake Cowichan. Tests were made and the water from the lake was found to be very good, but we were told that we would have to chlorinate it."

A Double Edge

SIDNEY REVIEW — Announcement last week by Transport Minister George Hees that the estimates for his department would be submitted without change is a welcome one to the North Saanich district. Although the fact that those estimates contain provision for extensive work at the airport, there is no guarantee that the work will be carried out.

That decision will rest with the House of Commons when it is called upon to consider the departmental budget.

In the event of its acceptance, the construction work at the airport could represent a major works undertaking when it is most necessary. The construction of a new administration building would offer employment to many and would relieve the congestion of unemployment which threatens the province at the present time.

Wisdom

COURTENAY ARGUS

Now that the government board of inquiry has handed down its recommendations on the proposed private development of the Campbell River waterfront, no one should jump to the conclusion the last chapter in the long controversy necessarily has been written.

Actually, only one phase of the matter has been settled, in that the government says under certain conditions it is prepared to lease, and later sell, crown-owned lands on the foreshore. There are several other hurdles to be overcome as the inquiry board's report points out, especially if the village commission wishes to continue its policy of opposing the scheme.

Considering the outcome of the inquiry and all the factors past and present as we know them, the Campbell River Village commission well could act with wisdom by giving the development corporation its blessing to proceed with the project.

Fishing Derby For Centennial

Up-Island Community Will Centre Celebration on Rod, Gun Club Show

CHEMAINUS — Centennial committee chairman Harry Ewart announced today that Chemainus' 1958 centennial celebrations will be centred around the Rod and Gun Club's annual salmon derby.

SCHOOL WORKER PAID TRIBUTE

DUNCAN (CP) — George E. Bonner, a long-time member of the school board and a former chairman, was honored Wednesday when Education Minister Leslie Peterson officially christened the new secondary school at Mill Bay after Mr. Bonner.

Mr. Peterson said the George E. Bonner secondary school is one of two such institutions in the province to receive the name of a person still living.

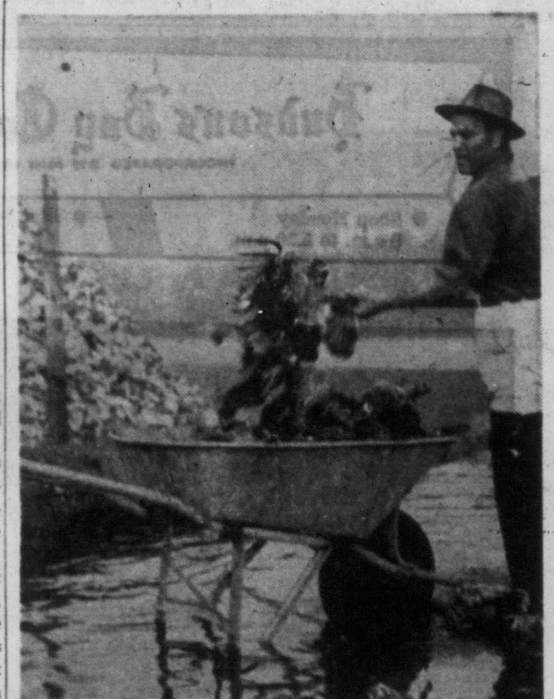

"The Rod and Gun Club has granted our committee permission to plan our centennial celebrations around 'their' fine derby," he said.

"I think it is only right that we feature the salmon derby, since it is the biggest single event of the year in Chemainus and certainly one of the biggest fishing derbies of the year on Vancouver Island."

Plans call for three days of celebrations Aug. 22, 23 and 24. Weekend of celebrating will get underway on the Friday night with outdoor dances, entertainment and fireworks.

Feature attraction on the Saturday will be a giant outdoor barbecue with oysters and clam chowder. Three big barges will be anchored off the Kinsmen Park and beach and will serve as a stage for musical and theatrical presentations.

The salmon derby on the Sunday will be the feature event. An extra big prize list will be offered to entrants on the occasion of the centennial year. This year's derby drew over 700 entries, but centennial committee officials hope to attract a wide number of visitors, especially visiting yachtsmen, for both the 1958 barbecue and the derby.

WITH "RED TIDE" BAN LIFTED on Ladysmith area, oyster fisheries have begun shipping again. Peter Limberis forks oysters into barrow on Malamos lease, and shells on barge await disposal. (Flett Studio photo)

30 Days Jail, $45 Fines For Licenceless Driver

DUNCAN (CP) — William George Suchar will serve 30 days in jail, on a charge of driving while his licence was suspended, following conviction in police court here on three charges arising from a traffic accident Sept. 29.

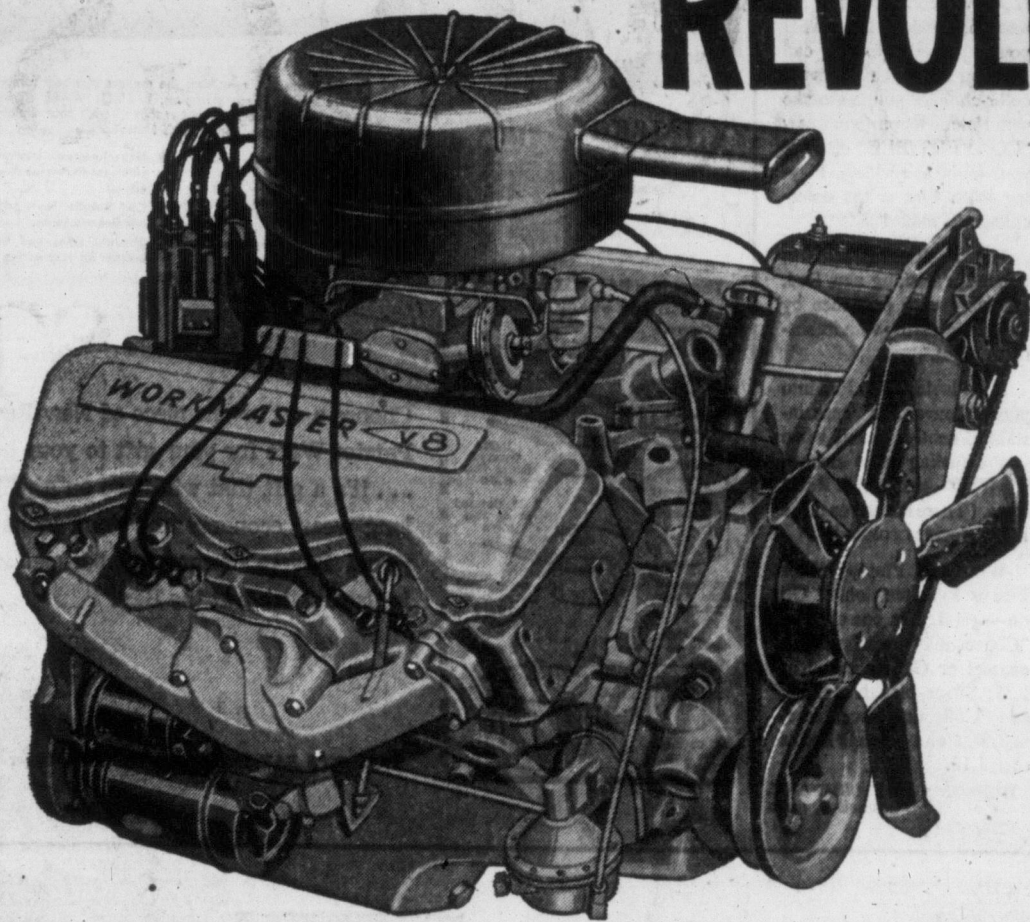

The 21-year-old trucker's helper was slightly injured when he drove his car into a ditch. He left the district after being released from hospital and was not picked up by police until this week.

Magistrate A. C. Sutton sentenced Suchar to 30 days in jail, without option of a fine, on a charge of driving while his licence was suspended.

Suchar also drew a fine of $35 and costs, or an additional 30 days in jail, on a charge of driving without due care and attention. He was fined $10 or another consecutive five days in jail for failing to file a report on the accident.

Suchar told police he would try to raise the money for the fines.

Centennial Book Warning Issued

Unofficial Version Published

An unauthorized "souvenir centennial booklet" is being sold in B.C. as an official record of planned 1958 events, B.C. centennial committee chairman L. J. Wallace warned today.

The official B.C. Centennial Record Book will be on the stands early next month at a price of $1.75, Mr. Wallace said. The unofficial publication is now selling for $5.00.

The Official Record Book is being published by Evergreen Press Ltd., Vancouver, and no other publication has been authorized by the committee.

Early this year an injunction was granted Evergreen Press against Robert Noel and the International Publishing Company.

The injunction stated that the International Publishing Company and its agents were prohibited until the trial of the action "from soliciting advertisements for publications or in the sale of the publications making any statements or advertising in such a manner as to cause the public to believe that theirs is the official publication of the government relating to the Centennial Exposition."

Mr. Wallace suggested that all local centennial committees and the general public query thoroughly all agents selling "centennial" advertising or "centennial" goods.

"Before making a decision," he said, "contact your Better Business Bureau, Chamber of Commerce, or write to the B.C. Centennial Committee, Legislative Buildings, Victoria."

The authorized Record Book carries the official B.C. centennial crest. It also contains the official calendar of events, a listing of all the planned celebrations throughout the province, which was recently produced by the B.C. Centennial Committee. It has many stories and pictures of various facets of B.C. life and other features.

"We have given many industries and businesses permission to use the crest in their advertising and promotion," Mr. Wallace said. "We are quite prepared to do that for very many more."

"But we must keep control of this. We do not intend to have British Columbia's 100th birthday allied with possible inferior products."

ANCIENT SCOTTISH RITES SET FOR HIGHLAND GAMES

Ancient Scottish tradition will be revived here next July with a ceremony of blessing for athletes who will take part in the annual Highland Games July 26, a spokesman for the Victoria Highland Games Association said today.

"A ceremony always was held prior to battle or contests," said A. MacLeod Baird, association member. "Next year's ceremony will be held on the slope below the flag pole in Beacon Hill Park, and will serve to open Highland week here."

All Scottish societies in Victoria will join hands in staging the Sunday ceremony and the functions to follow during the week-long Scots' observance of the centennial. The week will close with the Highland Games.

Local military units will take part in the blessing ceremony, which will take the form of a United Church service.

Councillor Asks Merger Study—No Referendum

Coun. George Chatterton intends to put the issue of investigating amalgamation squarely in the lap of Saanich council Monday night.

Coun. Chatterton said today he will introduce a motion that council support the Victoria Jaycees in a campaign to have a royal commission established. But he will by-pass the request for a referendum to be made to council by the Jaycees at the meeting.

"I'm all in favor of an investigation, not only of amalgamation but all other alternatives such as metropolitan government and integration of services," he said.

"I don't think there should be a referendum because a decision to investigate something should be made by the council, not the people. A referendum, of course, would be essential when all the facts are revealed and the voters are asked what they want done," he said.

Although an opponent of amalgamation, he has favored an investigation of the situation for some time.

"Today there are actually 20 intermunicipal boards, committees and arrangements in existence in the Greater Victoria area and something has to be done," he said.

However, he pointed out that no royal commission investigation in Canada ever has led to amalgamation. Metropolitan governments and integration of services have resulted from such investigations.

He argued against a referendum on whether or not a royal commission investigation should be launched because it "would be a loaded question."

"Undoubtedly, a large majority would vote yes and then someone would come along and twist the results by trying to say that the referendum proved people wanted amalgamation—a very different thing from an investigation."

Eric Charman, head of the Jaycees' amalgamation committee, said Coun. Chatterton's proposal to bypass a referendum would result in "the government not moving because it won't be sure that the people want an investigation."

Meanwhile, all three possible attitudes were revealed by reeves of Saanich, Oak Bay, and Esquimalt today when asked if they would recommend a referendum.

Box score was: For—Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash, Against—Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele, On the Fence—Oak Bay Reeve Fred Norris.

That's the line-up facing Mr. Charman who said Friday night he would open a "selling campaign" to persuade the municipalities to hold a referendum at the forthcoming election. He speaks to Saanich and Oak Bay councils Monday night.

"We hope to convince the councils that the public has a right to make itself heard on this important issue," he said. "If we cannot, we are repressed in all the municipalities."

Reeve Ash said he "would not hesitate" to make the recommendation, the third by him, at Monday's meeting.

"Amalgamation has been bandied about for years, all because the elected representatives refuse to tackle the problem by investigating it," he said.

Reeve Wurtele said "the people are not stupid" and can be depended upon to make an intelligent decision when they have information on an important question.

Reeve Fred Norris of Oak Bay said he was not opposed to a referendum being placed before the people but he would not recommend the course to council.

"I think it's a good idea but so far as I'm concerned it's strictly up to council to say whether it should be done so I'm not going to make any recommendation."

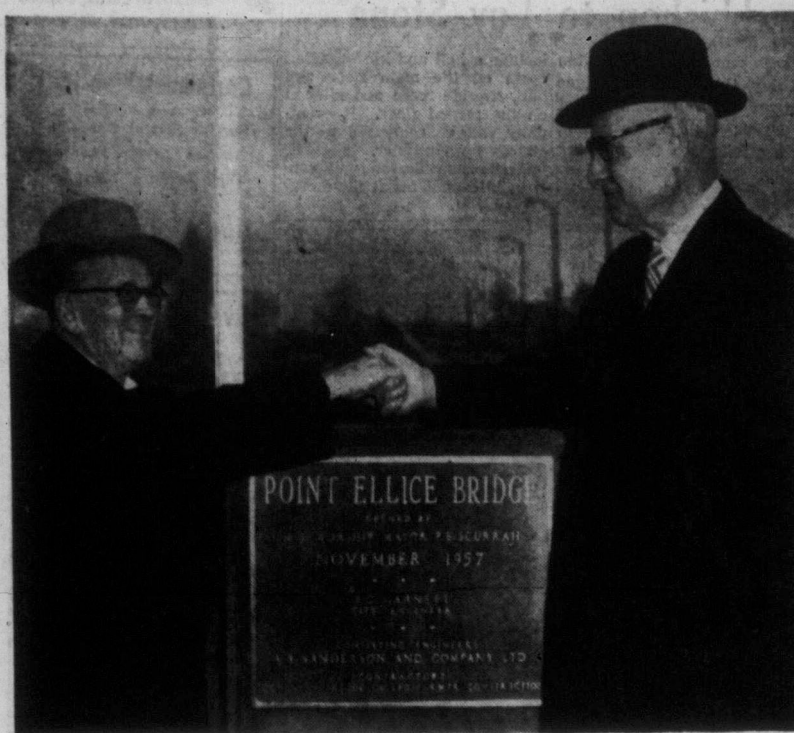

Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele said he would not make a recommendation to council and attacked the "unfortunate raising of this issue just before an election."

He said study was continuing, by a Greater Victoria committee, of a $5,000 report commissioned by the Chamber of Commerce on amalgamation.

"Esquimalt wants to pull its weight as part of Greater Victoria but at the present time the people of Esquimalt are not in favor of amalgamation and it would be very wrong for council to agree to a referendum with practically no notice at all."

"Council needs time to study the implications of what would be put before the people. This matter is no different than a by-law, which requires 10 clear days notice before it is put to a vote," he said.

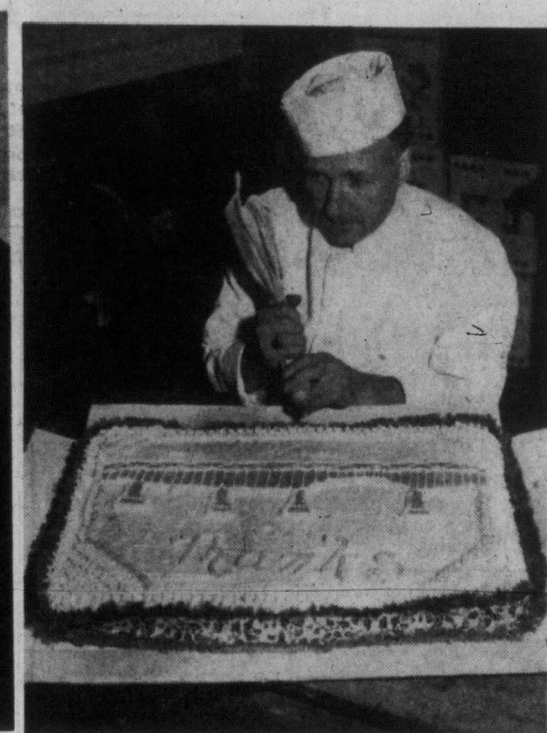

Reeve Wurtele said his council "definitely is not fearful of investigation, amalgamation. We're in favor of elected representatives sitting down to discuss this subject, but we are against a totally different investigation super-imposed on one already being held."

... AFTER 44 YEARS OF CONTROVERSY

MEMORIES REVIVED FOR OLD-TIMERS

New Bridge Kept Within Cost Estimate Says Mayor

At the opening of the new Point Ellice Bridge this afternoon, Mayor Percy Scurrah paid tribute to "the careful planning" of city engineers which made it possible for the bridge to be constructed "without any extras."

No Opponents In Sight For City Vote

"I think the absence of these extras is unique in a contract of speech prepared for delivery at this size," said the mayor in a the opening ceremonies.

A crowd was gathering at the city end of the bridge at press time to watch Charlie Banfield, unofficial mayor of Victoria West, cut a ribbon across the entrance, and Mayor Scurrah unveil a bronze plaque commemorating the opening.

Spectators included many old-timers who were involved or suffered loss when the original bridge collapsed in 1896.

Among them was Fred Humber, of Reno, Nevada, a survivor of the disaster, who returned to Victoria after 35 years' absence, to attend the ceremonies.

The mayor extended a special welcome to these old-timers and said:

"As you can see for yourselves, this is a very fine structure and in my opinion reflects great credit on our city engineer, J. C. Garnett; the bridge designer; the Dominion Bridge Co., who erected the bridge itself, and the Farmer Construction Co., who have built the approaches."

Fields Seeks Re-Election

Coun. Arthur Fields announced today he will seek re-election to his third term on Esquimalt council Dec. 12.

His decision, he said, was based on election apathy in the municipality which had seen only three candidates come forward to fill three vacant seats on council.

"It is only right that voters should have a slate of candidates to choose from," he said. "Election by acclamation is no good."

Coun. Fields reaffirmed his stand against amalgamation.

"I am not in favor of it and I don't believe the people of Esquimalt are either," he said. "I can't see that the municipality has anything to gain from amalgamation at this time."

He continued:

"When we began to tear down the last bridge, we realized we had not started a day too soon as we found that hundreds of rivets were entirely rusted through, and many of the small braces were rusted to the point where they could be broken by hand."

In asking Mr. Banfield to cut the ribbon, Mayor Scurrah recalled that he was present when old bridge collapsed in 1896 and helped rescue many of the survivors.

TEN YEARS OF TALK

He said the opening of the new bridge culminated nearly 10 years of discussion, meetings, newspaper articles and editorials as to whether the old bridge should be repaired or replaced.

"When I came into office in January, 1956, there was $232,000 in the land account which had been saved from the sale of reverted properties."

"We immediately caused a very definite acceleration in our efforts to sell more of these reverted land sale properties and during the past two years we have been successful in selling nearly $500,000 worth of these properties."

The mayor recalled that when he attended the convention of the Federation of Mayors at Hamilton in June, 1956, he learned that the federal government had remitted the sales tax on steel used in Vancouver's Granville Street bridge.

He went to Ottawa requesting the same treatment. Walter Harris, then finance minister, at first refused to consider any remission of taxes.

Later, after long negotiations and considerable political pressure, he took the tax off bridges all over Canada.

"This legislation saved Victoria $26,500 in sales tax on steel for this bridge," the mayor said.

MONTE ROBERTS

With Winnipeg in the news as it is this week, it was natural for the man sitting next to me to ask if I'd ever been there, and I said yes, and he asked if I knew Cam MacKenzie.

... did I know Cam MacKenzie? ... his was one of the first smiling faces encountered in the city of hospitality ... he was a member of a "golf" foursome organized by Ralph Allen, then the creator of the best sports (and funniest) column ever written in Canada ... also present was the news editor with the double-sort of name Allen Bill which, naturally, more than often came out Bill Allen ...

... and there was Clem Shields, with the red-haired temper that could be heard from Kildonan to Portage and Main ... and Fanny Mogul's place, where football supporters used to meet, but not necessarily eat, although that could be arranged, too ... and John Bird, who liked to bundle up in eight tons of fur including a Russian-type hat and explain how he loved to fight the subzero weather ... and Harry Lavender, the gentle, pipe-smoking father confessor of advertising row ...

... and Robert Simpson, the man with just the wrong name to be manager of Hudson's Bay House, which he was ... and Murray Turner, the eager beaver of the Young Men's Board of Trade ... and Alyn Taylor, its one-time president who is now an exalted executive in one of Canada's biggest financial firms ...

... and Gib Eaton of the department store family, arguing that his beloved air cadets were much finer boys than my beloved sea cadets ... and Jack Rutan, working a 24-hour day for the Navy League when the league was overwhelmed with things to do ... and Sig Bardal, who recently lost a battle for the publishership of the Globe and Mail, locking his car by removing the ignition and a major portion of the dashboard ...

... and Dick Sanburn, now the staid editor of an eminent newspaper, sharing temporary, joint accommodation with me in a place which quickly became known as Screwball Towers ... and I do mean joint ... and Jack Dalby, the airline executive, who sprouted the pin feathers in his wings while we sang a song in his honor entitled "In the Mail Hotel, that's where Dalby dwells ..."

... and Doc Guy, who, naturally enough, was a lawyer ... and Bill Osler, the unofficial president of the VERY unofficial Tribune one-before-lunch club ... and charter members Johnny Buss, the bear who walked like a man, and Vic Murray, who gleamed most of the material for an excellent column from the club's headquarters, in you can guess what part of the St. Regis Hotel ...

... and Wes McCurdy, working part time as a publisher when he could get away from his profession, organizing golf tournaments ... and J. W. Dufosse holding court in the Manitoba Club, then the home of the best food in Canada, if not the world ...

Organizations should write to Ald. Edgelow at the centennial office, "Yarrow Building" and "the sooner the better" he said.

Last public viewing period of the year will be held tonight between 8 and 10 at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, Little Saanich Mountain.

Public viewings through the telescope started this year in April.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Every year three or four fawns are born in Beacon Hill Park, yet the adult deer population never increases. What happens to the additional deer? L.P.A.

A. The offspring are removed by the provincial game department. If this was not done deer would become indred. Last year fawns went to the University of British Columbia and this year's offspring are destined for a game farm in the north of the province. Beacon Hill deer population thus remains constant—one buck and three does.

Minor found in possession of liquor, William Alexander Rosemus, Colwood, was fined $10 and $5 costs in Colwood RCMP court Friday.

Kumfort Heating, Queens Avenue, was fined $10 and $3 costs for erecting a chimney without a permit.

Africa Tackles Racial Problem

Whites, Colored Folk to Make History at Meeting in University

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — Religious and political leaders of South Africa's rigidly segregated races—designated as black, white, colored and Asiatic—will face up to their perilous problems on the same platform here next Tuesday.

They will meet for three days at the University of Witwatersrand, into whose halls and classrooms the government policy of total separation, or apartheid, has not yet penetrated.

It will be the first time in South Africa's history that South Africans of all races have met in a relaxed atmosphere for appraisal of the entire troubled complex of racial antagonism here. Approximately 500 delegates and observers are expected to attend.

The agenda includes such subjects as human relations in a multiracial society, the responsibilities of religious communities, educational policies for a multiracial society, economic rights and duties, civil rights and duties and political arrangements.

Its sponsors do not expect the conference to result in a detailed program for the future of South Africa. But they hope attention will be focused on the wide field where agreement can be found.

"Perhaps the broadest single principle upon which the participants are likely to agree is that the future of our land cannot any longer be decided by one racial group acting, whether benevolently or otherwise, on behalf of all the others, but must be decided by representatives of all the people of South Africa," a spokesman for the planning committee said.

PATON TO SPEAK
The outspoken Anglican Bishop of Johannesburg, Rt. Rev. Ambrose Reeves, will speak, as will South Africa's most famous author, and chairman of the Liberal party, Alan Paton.

The conference grew out of an all-African conference held under the auspices of the Interdenominational African Ministers' Federation and attended only by Africans last year.

The conference rejected the view that only the choice of "ultimate complete separation" lay before South Africans. It declared the South African situation calls for "co-operation and interdependence between the various races comprising the South African nation" and denied this would constitute a threat to the survival of the white man in South Africa.

Neither the National party of Prime Minister Johannes Strijdom nor the opposition United party will be represented officially at the conference, but both are expected to have observers there. Both parties have declared their belief in "white supremacy."

Man enough to be given a fine watch—still boy enough to be unable to hide his bursting pride—this is one of those touching moments that stays with you always. For even when he has children of his own, he will still say proudly and affectionately “It’s from Birks”—and remember with tenderness the love that bestowed on him only the best. To four generations of Canadians who have felt the same way about gifts for the people they love, Birks has been the natural choice. A watch from Birks is so right—and in giving it, you gain the added joy of hearing the delighted pride of someone saying “It’s from Birks.”

TORONTO WHOOPS IT UP

B.C. 'Plugs' Centennial In Mammoth Cup Parade

TORONTO (CP)—It took a while, but Grey Cup City erupted today into the sound and color traditionally associated with Canada's foremost sports spectacle. The fuse was lit at all-night parties and by howling crowds in the downtown hotel lobbies. Crowds that were subdued Thursday and relatively quiet early Friday began to whoop it up during the night and never stopped. Today, as the bands and majorettes arrived, the crowds met the special trains and Grey Cup fervor rolled to a peak. Whipple said his prediction was based on an observation from Jodrell Bank Observatory in England, which reported sighting the rocket at 10.18 EST (7.18 PST) today. "This leads us to believe that the current period of the rocket is about 88.2 minutes," he said. That figure represents the time it takes the rocket to circle the earth. Whipple said that the rocket probably would orbit the earth "four to eight" more times before expiring. Whipple said "it is not impossible for the rocket to fall over North America, but it looks more probable that it will land in the eastern hemisphere." "Dr. Whipple has predicted the final plunge of the rocket should be visible, whether it is day or night—as it starts to burn from friction with the atmosphere. The scientist said he believed the object would survive the terrific friction of the atmosphere. If it lands where it could be recovered, Whipple said "The solidly constructed parts such as the rocket motor, should come through without being badly destroyed." Dr. John S. Rinehart, assistant director of the observatory, Continued on Page 2

Antarctic Ship Hit by Iceberg Dumping Cargo

LONDON (AP)—With a damaged hull, a British scientific research ship limped into a frozen island in the South Atlantic today after striking an iceberg on her way to the Antarctic. Last word from the 1,100-ton survey ship Shackleton said she had reached Uruguay Cove on Laurie Island and that she was dumping her cargo as water poured in between decks. Argentina maintains a base on the island. The message said lifeboats were lowered in preparation to abandon ship. An attempt was being made to beach her.

Fumbles Ruin Hopes Of Western Champs

From CP and BUP Dispatches

TORONTO—Hamilton's powerful and alert Tiger-Cats scored early and late to rout the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, 32-7, today and return the Grey Cup to the East for the first time in four years. Fumbles proved the downfall of the Winnipeg club. Seven times they fumbled and six of them were recovered by the Tiger-Cats. Four of the fumbles were responsible for Hamilton touchdowns. Hamilton, which beat Winnipeg, 12-6, four years ago, scored twice in the first three minutes and then added three more touchdowns in the first 10 minutes of the final quarter. Gerry McDougall, Hamilton's twisting, driving 221-pound fullback, paced Hamilton with a pair of touchdowns on runs of 27 and five yards. Defensive halfback Ray (Bibbs) Bawel, a thorn in Winnipeg's passing attack, all afternoon, raced 50 yards with a fumble for the first major of the game. Quarterback Bernie Faloney ran six yards and Cookie Gilchrist, Hamilton's other 221-pound back got the Tiger-Cats final touchdown on a 16-yard end run. Hamilton built up a 32-0 lead before substitute quarterback Canadian Barry Roseborough, playing for the injured Ken Ploen, tossed 15 yards to Dennis Mendyk for the lone major by the western champions. It came with only four minutes to play and gave Winnipeg the consolation of averting a shut-out. The game was marred by a fourth-quarter incident when a

Ti-Cats Use Derby As Champagne Glass

TORONTO (CP)—"Pour it in his hat." Billy Graham, rambling young backfielder of the Grey Cup champion Hamilton Tiger-Cats, grabbed manager Len Back's derby hat as a champagne glass today as the team exploded in the dressing room after beating Winnipeg Blue Bombers 32-7. Graham led a contingent of players after coach Jim Trimble and carried him around the room. Flash bulbs popped. Veteran linemen Vince Scott unwrapped his hands. "Those Winnipeggers sure cut you—but man, were we up for this one," he said. Ray Bawel, glue-handed star who was spilled by a fan as he ran down the sidelines late in the game, said he didn't feel Monday, oh boy."

SILENCE AND TEARS

Bombers Grim Bunch After Bad Beating

TORONTO (CP)—A few eyes were red but it was the quietness that stood out in the Winnipeg dressing room after the Blue Bombers absorbed a 32-7 beating today from the Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Grey Cup game. "The spirit was still there but the bodies couldn't take it any longer," said Bomber coach Bud Grant. He moved quietly up and down the room patting each player on the shoulder, and saying a few consoling words. Grant then asked the press and radio representatives to leave for a couple of minutes while he spoke to the team. He later told the press he did not consider Hamilton the toughest team Bombers had met. "Just ask the players," he said. "They consider the Tiger-Cats about on a par with B.C. Lions. "But they played a good game today. They outplayed us in every department. They were healthy." Manager Bill Boivin said he thought the turning point came when fullback Gerry James fumbled around the Hamilton Continued on Page 17

CELEBRATES 83RD BIRTHDAY

Sir Winston Churchill leaves his London house en route to his country residence at Chartwell, Kent, where today he celebrated his birthday at a family party. Only other guest was Field Marshal Montgomery. (AP wirephoto)

'Grand Old Man' Starts 84th Year

LONDON (UP)—Sir Winston Churchill celebrated his 83rd birthday today, his once-powerful body bowed under the weight of the years.

The statesman who guided Britain through its "finest hour," took time out from work on the last volume of his massive four-volume "History of the English-Speaking Peoples" to observe the anniversary.

It was a quiet celebration at the Churchill home at Chartwell, in the country, near London. Only members of the family and Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, the victor of El Alamein, shared in the celebration.

Churchill's son Randolph, and his daughters, Diana and Mary, were at Chartwell to help their father celebrate. The other daughter, Sarah, an actress, is in the United States.

Most of Churchill's nine grandchildren also were there to watch him cut the huge leaved birthday cake, topped with a single but big candle.

Churchill no longer has the physical strength for prolonged festivities. The years have taken their toll of the sturdy frame which served him in his adventurous career from the Boer War through the Second World War.

Montgomery, almost as flamboyant a figure as his former chief, disclosed he was greeting the old warrior with the Churchillian phrase: "Sir, I salute you with 83 salutes from a hundred thousand guns."

Earlier this week, Montgomery filmed a special introduction to an American television program on Churchill's career which will be screened tonight by Britain's independent television network. In it, Montgomery saluted Churchill "as the greatest Englishman of all time."

Four Bodies Discovered In Fire Ruins

HOPE, B.C. (CP)—A coroner's inquiry will be held next week into the deaths of four men whose bodies were found in the charred ruins of a shack east of here Friday.

The shack, located near the Canadian National Railways tracks on the north side of the Coquihalla River, burned to the ground last weekend.

RCMP speculated the four, all believed in their 60s, had a party, fell asleep and were burned when the shack caught fire.

One RCMP officer said the bodies were so badly burned that identification was impossible.

The bodies were discovered by Vancouver hunter Walter Payment.

No date for the inquiry has been set.

Labor Party To Take Over In N. Zealand

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (CP)—Labor unseated the National government in New Zealand's general elections and will return to power after an absence of eight years, final unofficial returns showed tonight.

The figures gave Labor 41 seats in the 80-seat Parliament to 38 for the National party.

Prime Minister Keith Holyoake. Another seat will be contested in January.

Voting in the one constituency was postponed because of the death of one of the candidates. Observers believe the National party should retain the seat—which would mean a two-seat parliamentary margin for the new Labor government.

Walter Nash heads the Labor party, in power in New Zealand from 1935 to 1949.

Proxy votes remain to be counted, but most political quarters believe they will favor Labor.

The preliminary count showed that Labor polled 508,981 votes to the National party's 458,801. The Social Credit League got 75,135 votes.

Labor won most support in the cities and bigger provincial towns. National party candidates held the country areas.

Four Communist candidates polled only 526 votes among them.

In the outgoing Parliament, the National party had 45 seats and Labor 35.

"Don't tell us that," some of the more than 1,000 persons attending the meeting yelled. "Give us jobs."

The meeting was sponsored by the Vancouver Labor Council and ended with a spate of resolutions calling for increased public and private spending to create more jobs.

ORDER RESTORED

Soon after Mr. Taylor began to speak there were calls of "Sit down" and "we want jobs."

Council president Lloyd Whalen restored order. Then, as Mr. Taylor described federal government moves to put money into the economy, the shouting became more insistent and dozens of persons began to move out into the lobby of the auditorium where the rally was held.

"I see that I must sit down," said Mr. Taylor as Mr. Whalen spoke to him. He left the platform soon after.

Civic and union officials told the rally that more than 300,000 Canadians are out of work and the situation is the worst since the "hungry 30s." One out of 10 workers, 500,000 men, will be jobless before spring, speakers said.

JOB ONLY HELP
British Columbia Liberal leader Arthur Loing said in reference to unemployment insurance that "only a job will fill the needs of those without a job."

The rally's revolution also called for increased trade, particularly with Asian countries and further expansion of the federal housing scheme, particularly for low-cost homes.

Representatives of CCF, Social Credit, Conservative and Liberal parties were on hand and there were telegrams from others regretting their inability to be present personally.

French Assembly Okays Gaillard Algerian Plans
PARIS (AP)—The French National Assembly Friday night approved plans for restricted home rule in war-torn Algeria but the plans had already been rejected by rebel leaders as insufficient to stop the three-year war.

Two bills were passed on votes of confidence in Premier Felix Gaillard's government after the young premier had rejected a Moroccan-Tunisian offer to mediate the Algerian rebellion.

Gaillard succeeded where the last government met its downfall, ramming the bills through a turbulent assembly. His 3½-week-old government won majorities of 289 to 200 and 267 to 200.

AILING PRESIDENT DOWN ON FARM

President Eisenhower and Mamie display broad smiles as they arrive at Gettysburg, Pa., farm home after drive from Washington. Ike plans indefinite vacation to recover from recent cerebral attack. (AP wirephoto)

WHAT'S YOUR OPINION? Eisenhower's Progress Said 'Excellent'

By JOHN MIKA and IRVING STRICKLAND

Question: Do you think President Eisenhower of the U.S., who carried a great load during the Sec. d World War, should attempt to carry on as leader of the most powerful nation in the free world when, at the age of 67, his health obviously is precarious?

Charles Dickinson, 1600 Hampshire: "If he and his advisers think he is in a position to carry on, I would say that certainly he should not retire. I consider him a very efficient and great man. He's honest and generous, which is very refreshing in a politician. It would be unfortunate if the free world was to lose his leadership, unless that was absolutely necessary for his health's sake."

Jack McLeod, 1174 Hadfield: "I feel he should step down and let some man take the job who's capable of handling it. Eisenhower definitely is not in good health and he should retire. If a man was as sick as he is, do you think any business would hire him? Three major illnesses are three too many for a man in so important a position. The economy of the U.S. and even of Canada, depends on a strong leader in Washington. Look how the stock markets, Canadian as well as U.S. react because of his illnesses."

Mrs. Mary Riedlmayer, 1007 Esquimalt Road: "If he's sick and he certainly seems to be, then he shouldn't remain as president of the U.S. A sick man can't keep interested in what's going on around the world. He also is getting too old for the kind of responsibility that goes with his job."

Morris Phillips, 833 1/2 Fort: "I certainly don't think that Eisenhower should continue as president. A man has to be in terrific physical shape to withstand the strain of an office like that and it would only be murder to leave him in the White House when he's been sick so often. He's loved by his people but in today's world you need more than that kind of qualification for the U.S. presidency or else the whole free world will suffer."

Mrs. Beverly Gray, Brentwood: "I think he should carry on. After all, Roosevelt did. I feel that if this illness is serious enough to affect his capability, he will know it himself. But from the reports, I take it that this latest illness is not a major one."

CCFer Charges Vets Denied Treatment

OTTAWA (CP)—H. W. Herridge protested in the Commons Friday that male immigrants are receiving treatment at Shaughnessy Military Hospital in Vancouver but war veterans are being denied admission.

Veterans Minister A. J. Brooks said the complaint would be investigated provided Mr. Herridge gave the department particulars.

The CCF member for Kootenay West said Shaughnessy Hospital was built to care for men who fought for this country. Yet needy veterans were being turned away while male immigrants were receiving hospital services, dentures and glasses.

Certain female immigrants and children were getting a type of out-patient service.

Mr. Brooks said no eligible veteran is refused entry to the hospital. However, Mr. Herridge said many needy veterans do not qualify under regulations and are prohibited from receiving treatment.

"I suggest that no needy or destitute veteran in Canada, regardless of the present regulations, should be denied admission when we can make provision for other persons," he said.

Gatineau Summer Home Offered For Use by PM

OTTAWA (CP)—The Federal District Commission has offered a summer home in the Gatineau hills northwest of Ottawa for use by Canada's prime ministers but it was not yet known whether it would be accepted.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, in Toronto for today's Grey Cup game, said Friday night the government has not considered the offer of the house on a secluded knoll above Harrington Lake. He had not seen the property.

The FDC acquired the house and grounds along with 4.875 acres of adjacent land—in 1951 for $232,000 when it was developing Gatineau Park. The commission has been renting it to Ottawa residents during the summer months.

'T-BRICKS FOR KOREA'

$19, Year's Saving In Pennies Donated

(Today's Donation List, Page 33)

Many of the donations pouring into The Times "T-Bricks for Korea" fund represent the personal sacrifice of Victorians to whom giving is far more important than keeping.

The anonymous "Mr. Pennies" is an example.

Friday night the elderly gentleman was talking about our Korean fund with Harold Lees of Lees' Candy Store, 643 Yates.

"Mr. Pennies" isn't well-to-do, but he wanted to help. All of a sudden, he knew that he could. He had a cigar box at home that contained $19 in pennies. He had been saving them for a year.

And, Mr. Lees said today, he promised to bring the cigar box to the store, where it would be forwarded to The Times.

"Tell them I don't want my name used," he said to Mr. Lees. "Just call me Mr. Pennies."

His pennies will buy 190 bricks—at 10 cents each—to help build an outpatients TB pavilion for children of Seoul, Korea. Indirectly the bricks will build up the hunger-weakened, diseased bodies of tiny Korean children.

Overnight The Times received $343.60. We now have $1,711.89. We need $12,000—and we have only 25 days in which to receive donations.

Send yours today to The Victoria Daily Times, Douglas Street or take them to The Times downtown office, Broad Street.

"If we had got that one, it might have been different," Boivin said.

Herb Gray, all-star defensive end, sobbed uncontrollably as he sat with head bowed in a corner.

Defensive half-Keith Pearce, who has been with Bombers since 1950, said he was "calling it quits."

"I guess I've had it: I'm not getting any younger."

After the players finished their showers, they quietly dressed and then walked dejectedly from the dressing room to their special bus outside the stadium.

Fluoridation Adopted by Island Town

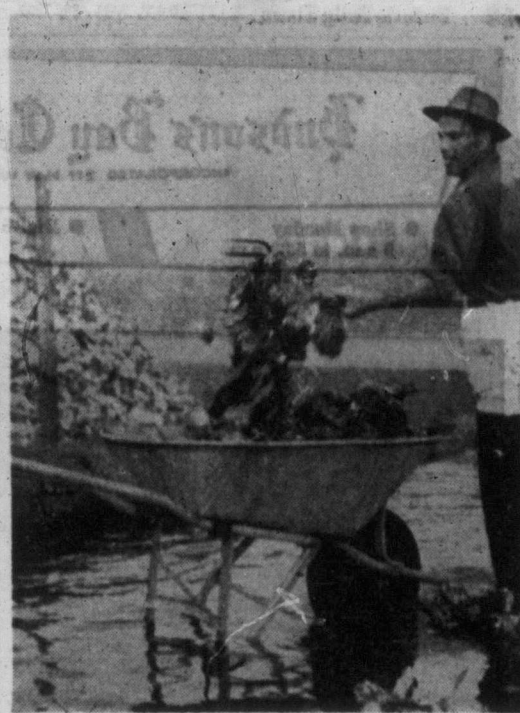

DUNCAN (CP)—A fluoridation system will be installed at Mesachie Lake, the home of Hillcrest Lumber Company, "probably by the end of the year," company president Hector Stone said Thursday night while acting as chairman of a fluoridation meeting here.

"The water at Mesachie Lake runs heavily to iron," Mr. Stone said, "and we decided to take our water from Lake Cowichan."

"Tests were made and the water from the lake was found to be very good, but we were told that we would have to chlorinate it."

REVOLUTIONARY NEW TRUCK POWER!

It's truck-engineered to give you the high torque needed on big-load, tough-terrain jobs. It's truck-built to keep maintenance and operating costs way down, to help you stay and save on any job! See the industry's newest V8, developed especially to make new Chevrolet Series 90, 100 and W100 the best performing big trucks on or off the road!

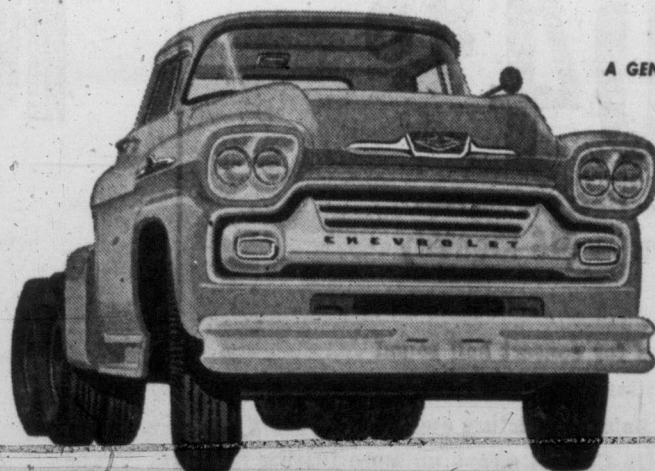

Compact power in Super Taskmaster V8
High-efficiency 175-h.p. and shortstroke design give you more pulling power per pound and cost-cutting economy. Standard in new heavy-duty Spartan Series 70 and 80 models.

More durability in Jobmaster 6
Here's a rugged valve-in-head power plant that keeps maintenance expenses down! Its 150-h.p. rating means hour-saving performance. Standard in Viking Series 60 medium-duty models.

More "horses" in Thriftmaster 6
Now—a new high of 145-h.p., and an increased 8.25 to 1 compression ratio in Canada's most popular light-duty truck engine. Here's more economy—more dependability—more stamina.
